HOW TO USE THE SUPPLEMENT.

---

THE titles of the articles and defined words and phrases are repeated in the order in which they are to be found in the AMERICAN AND ENGLISH ENCYCLOPÆDIA OF LAW, Second Edition. At the top of each page are given the name of the subject and the pages thereof which are supplemented by reference to and statement of the late cases. Thus:

---

AGENCY.

Vol. I.

---

at the top of a page signifies that pages 956 to 961 of the article "Agency" in the first volume of the Second Edition are supplemented.

In both text and notes the catch lines which appear in the Second Edition are here repeated in connection with new cases, thereby denoting that such new cases support the statement of law made in the text or notes of the Second Edition under the corresponding catch line.

The large heavy-faced figures refer to the pages of the volume of the Second Edition. The smaller figure following the page number in the notes refers to the original note numbered by that same figure on that page. Thus, a note numbered 950. 2., with cases cited, indicates that those cases support the proposition to which the cases in note 2 on page 950 were cited.

In some instances the new cases have necessitated the writing of new text, and the fact that such text is new is indicated by inclosing it with brackets. In the notes great freedom has been indulged in stating new illustrations and applications.

The omission of a title that appeared in the Second Edition implies that no new cases on that subject have been found.

Waiver — Evidence. — Rice v. Fidelity, etc., Co., (C. C. A.) 103 Fed. Rep. 427.

7. 2. Effect of False Statement as to Future. — City Trust, etc., Co. v. Lee, 204 Ill. 69.

Kentucky Statute. — Champion Ice Mfg., etc., Co. v. American Bonding, etc., Co., 115 Ky. 863.

3. Effect of Proviso Making Any Misrepresentations Avoid Policy. — See Phenix Ins. Co. v. Guarantee Co. of North America, (C. C. A.) 115 Fed. Rep. 964.

8. 1. Previous Defaults. — If the employee actually turned over to the insured all the sums actually collected by him after the execution of the bond, the insurer cannot be held for his default, notwithstanding he may have given credit on the wrong account in order to cover up a previous default. Model Mill Co. v. Fidelity, etc., Co., 1 Tenn. Ch. App. 365.

9. 1. Risk Limited to Acts Discovered Within

Given Time. — Remington v. Fidelity, etc., Co., 27 Wash. 429.

2. Losses Occurring Subsequent to Discovery of First Loss by Employer Not Included. — Remington v. Fidelity, etc., Co., 27 Wash. 429.

10. 2. Ambiguous Terms Construed Against Insurer. — Carstairs v. American Bonding, etc., Co., (C. C. A.) 116 Fed. Rep. 449; City Trust, etc., Co. v. Lee, 204 Ill. 69; Champion Ice Mfg., etc., Co. v. Implied Cancellation of Contract. — Sun L. Ins. Co. v. U. S. Fidelity, etc., Co., 130 N. Car. 129.

6b. Proof of Loss. — A condition in the bond requiring the furnishing of proof of loss to the satisfaction of the insurer is not to be construed as compelling the insured to establish to the satisfaction of the insurer the absolute liability of the latter and the absence of any defense. A condition requiring all reasonable verification of the statements made in the proposal and of the compliance therewith is to be construed as meaning such subsequent compliance with the indicated future course of conducting the business. Globe Sav., etc., Co. v. Employers' Liability Assur. Corp., 13 Manitoba 531.

11. 1. Fiduciaries. — Ryan v. Ryan, 174 Mo. 286, quoting 13 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 11.

Fiduciary Relation. — Meyer v. Reimer, 65 Kan. 822; Studybaker v. Cofield, 159 Mo. 596, wherein it was held that whether or not a person stands in a fiduciary relation is a question of fact.

FINES AND PENALTIES.

BY W. B. ROBINSON.

53. II. DEFINITIONS AND DISTINCTIONS — 2. Fine. — See note 2.

3. Penalty. — See note 3.

54. See note 1.

Idea of Punishment Necessarily Involved. — See notes 2, 3, 4.

Distinction Between Fine and Penalty. — See note 5.

4. Forfeiture. — See note 6.

55. III. POWER TO CREATE. — See note 1.

53. 2. Definition of Fine. — See U. S. v. Nash, 111 Fed. Rep. 525, quoting 13 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 53; State v. McConnell, 70 N. H. 158.

3. Broadest Meaning of Term "Penalty." — Blum v. Widdicomb, 90 Fed. Rep. 220. See also U. S. v. Nash, 111 Fed. Rep. 525.

54. 1. Specific Meaning — Confined to Pecuniary Punishment. — Blum v. Widdicomb, 90 Fed. Rep. 220; People v. Sloane, 98 N. Y. App. Div. 450. See also U. S. v. Nash, 111 Fed. Rep. 525, quoting 13 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 54; Anderson v. Byrnes, 122 Cal. 272.

Imprisonment Not a Penalty. — See Kanter v. Circuit Ct., 108 Ill. App. 287.

Sum Payable on Breach of Any of Several Stipulations Held a Penalty. — Bradley v. Walsh, 88 L. T. N. S. 737.

Penalties Distinguished from Liquidated Damages. — In re White, 84 L. T. N. S. 594, 50 W. R. 81; Strickland v. Williams, (1899) 1 Q. B. 382, 68 L. J. Q. B. 241, 80 L. T. N. S. 4.

2. Idea of Punishment Necessarily Involved. — McDonald v. Hearst, 95 Fed. Rep. 656.

3. Statute Imposing Liability for Actual Loss or Damage Occasioned by Its Violation Does Not Create Penalty. — Hutchinson v. Young, 80 N. Y. App. Div. 246, quoting 13 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 54; Kennealy v.

6. Other Insurance. — Breeyear v. Rockingham Farmers' Mut. F. Ins. Co., 71 N. H. 445.

Where the agent who issued the policy was a part owner of the insured premises as an heir at law of his mother, who died after the execution of the mortgage, and was also one of the makers of the note to secure which the mortgage was given, it was held that his failure, when issuing the policy, to notify the company of these facts, and his failure to inform the company that there was a prior mortgage upon the property, issued to the mortgagee, could not be attributed to his mother, nor would that fact invalidate the policy issued by him, although the amount was in excess of the amount permitted as concurrent insurance. Magoun v. Fireman's Fund Ins. Co., 86 Minn. 486, 91 Am. St. Rep. 370.

Effect of Provision in Policy Against Notice to Agent. — The provision in the policy that any knowledge of the agent not set forth in the application shall not be binding upon the company does not relieve the insurer from liability where the agent has inserted incorrect statements. Parno v. Iowa Merchants Mut. Ins. Co., 114 Iowa 133.

Sufficiency of Evidence to Show Knowledge of Agent. — See Sergeant v. Liverpool, etc., Ins. Co., 96 N. Y. App. Div. 117.

Burden of Proving Knowledge of Agent on Insured. — Sergeant v. Liverpool, etc., Ins. Co., 96 N. Y. App. Div. 117.

Effect of Acceptance of Policy by Insured. — Where a party makes application for a policy to the agent of the company, designating in such application the company from which he desires the policy, describing therein the property, and answering the usual questions as to ownership, liens, etc., and in his absence, and without his consent or knowledge, the application is so changed as to make it an application to another and different company, which issues the policy, varying in several respects from the application, which latter is sent by mail to the assured, although such party accepts the policy, he is not bound by the representations and answers contained in the application, and the policy will not be avoided if such representations and answers are not true. Cleavenger v. Franklin F. Ins. Co., 47 W. Va. 595.

Incumbrances. — Issuance of a policy after the insured has fully informed the agent as to existing incumbrances on the property is a waiver of a condition in the policy that it should be void if the property was incumbered, notwithstanding a provision that there should be no waiver of any of the conditions of the policy unless such waiver was written upon it or attached thereto. Hobkirk v. Phoenix Ins. Co., 102 Wis. 13.

Reformation of Policy Where Agent Has Misstated Interest. — See Dalton v. Milwaukee Mechanics' Ins. Co., 126 Iowa 377; Dalton v. Agricultural Ins. Co., (Iowa 1905) 102 N. W. Rep. 125; Dalton v. Providence-Washington Ins. Co., (Iowa 1905) 102 N. W. Rep. 126.

A Concealment and Misrepresentation by an Insurance Broker, in his application to the insurer, and in procuring insurance, of the interest and ownership of the insured, in accordance with which the insurance is effected, will avoid the policy of insurance if there be any express conditions therein to the effect that if the interest of the assured be not truly stated, or if the interest of the assured be other than unconditional and sole ownership, the policy shall be void. The application for insurance in the face of and taken in connection with such conditions contained in the policy is a warranty on the part of the assured as to such interest and ownership, a breach of which avoids the policy. What Constitutes Sole and Unconditional Ownership. — To be "unconditional and sole," the interest must be completely vested in the assured, not contingent or conditional, nor for years or life only, nor in common, but of such a nature that the insured must sustain the entire loss if the property is destroyed; and this is so whether the title is legal or equitable. Partial Ownership Insufficient. — Dow v. National Assur. Co., (R. I. 1904) 58 Atl. Rep. 999.

Owner of Undivided Interest. — A policy of fire insurance which expressly stipulates that it shall be void "if the interest of the insured be other than unconditional and sole ownership" cannot be enforced where it appears that the insured had title to only an undivided interest in the property insured, although such insured may have also had a mortgage on the remainder of the property for an amount greater than the value of the whole. Palatine Ins. Co. v. Dickenson, 116 Ga. 794.

Contingent Interest in Proceeds of Sale. — An agreement between the insured and a third person that in case one-third of the amount realized upon a sale of the insured property should be more than sufficient to reimburse him for his outlay and expenses, the residue of that third should go to such third person, does not prevent the insured from being the sole and unconditional owner of the property. Manchester F. Assur. Co. v. Abrams, (C. C. A.) 89 Fed. Rep. 932.

Assignment of Policy with Consent of Company. — Where the policy is assigned, with the consent of the insurer, to one who holds a bill of sale for the insured property, having agreed, however, to reconvey under certain circumstances, the insurer, if he had notice of the particulars of the transaction before the assignment, cannot object that the assignee is not the absolute owner. Phenix Ins. Co. v. Lindley, 111 Ill. App. 266.

Policy Issued Expressly to Other than Owner. — The printed condition in the policy which requires that the insured be the sole and unconditional owner of the insured property is controlled by the written portion of the policy which shows its issuance to the insured as contractor for the erection of a building on property owned by another. Sullivan v. Spring Garden Ins. Co., 34 N. Y. App. Div. 128.

Property in Indian Territory. — It has been held that the insurer cannot claim the forfeiture of a policy on the ground that the insured property was on land in the Indian Territory of which, at the time the policy was issued, by Act of Congress, the insured could not be sole and unconditional owner. German-American Ins. Co. v. Paul, (Indian Ter. 1904) 83 S. W. Rep. 60.

Partnership Trading as Company. — A grant by the owners of property to a partnership which is trading as a company renders the partnership the sole and unconditional owner of the property. Missouri Sav. Assoc. v. German-American Ins. Co., 73 Mo. App. 158.

The Holder of the Legal Title to Property of a Syndicate is not the sole and unconditional owner. Bradley v. German-American Ins. Co., 90 Mo. App. 369.

Where Insurer Has Notice. — An insurance policy issued with full notice to the company that the building insured stands upon leased ground is not invalidated by a provision that it shall be void if the subject thereof is on ground not owned by the assured in fee simple. Cowell v. Phoenix Ins. Co., 126 N. Car. 684.

5. Where the Life Estate and the Estate Devised to Executors Are United in the same person, this person is the sole and unconditional owner, although the property in his hands is impressed with a trust. Security Ins. Co. v. Kuhn, 207 Ill. 166.

Judgment of Ouster for Nonpayment of Rent. — Under the Washington statute which provides that when the lease has not, by its terms, expired, "execution upon the judgment shall not be issued until the expiration of five days after the entry of the judgment, within which time the tenant, or any subtenant, or any mortgagee of the term or other party interested in its continuance," may pay into court the amount of the judgment and costs, and thereupon the judgment shall be satisfied and the tenant restored to his estate, the judgment of ouster is not complete until the five days have elapsed. And where the property is destroyed before the end of that time the insurer cannot defeat recovery under the policy on the ground that there has been a change in the interest, title, or possession of the insured. Browne Nat. Bank v. Southern Ins. Co., 22 Wash. 379.

Conditional Consent to Transfer. — Where a policy of insurance on a horse stipulated that it should be void in the event of a transfer of the property without the assent of the insurance company, a promise by the company or its agents to ratify such transfer upon certain conditions imposed upon the transferee, which were never complied with, was held not to amount to a waiver of the forfeiture. Hubert v. Southern Live-Stock Ins. Co., 103 Ga. 294.

Notice to Insurer Before Issuance of Policy. — Where the insured notifies the agent of the insurer before the issuance of the policy of his intention to transfer the possession of the property, the insurer cannot, when the transfer subsequently takes place, avoid the policy on the ground that there has been a breach of the condition against the transfer. Queen Ins. Co. v. Union Bank, etc., Co., (C. C. A.) 111 Fed. Rep. 697.

So the agent's knowledge of the commencement of foreclosure proceedings at the time of issuance of the policy is a waiver. Benjamin v. Palatine Ins. Co., 80 N. Y. App. Div. 260, affirmed 177 N. Y. 588.

Statement of Rule. — "The rule is that where an insurance company has by its assurances or conduct led the insured to believe that a forfeiture of his policy will not be insisted upon, and he has been in fact induced by it to act upon this understanding, the company will not be allowed to set up the forfeiture of the policy, and thus to defeat a recovery upon the policy by reason of the failure of the assured to do something which the company itself induced him not to do." Mattingly v. Springfield F., etc., Ins. Co., (Ky. 1904) 83 S. W. Rep. 577.

Failure to Return the Unearned Premium after notice of the commencement of foreclosure proceedings constitutes a waiver of the breach of a provision in the policy rendering it void if such proceedings should be commenced with knowledge of the insured. Horton v. Home Ins. Co., 122 N. Car. 498, 65 Am. St. Rep. 717.

Payment to Mortgagee. — No waiver of forfeitures by breaches on the part of the mortgagor can be predicated upon the payment to the mortgagee under the "union mortgage clause," nor does the payment to the mortgagor of the balance constitute a waiver where the parties by stipulation agreed that it should have no such effect. *Wisconsin Nat. Effect of Agent's Advice. — Under Stat. Ky. 1903, § 639, which provides that "all statements or descriptions in any application for a policy of insurance shall be deemed and held representations and not warranties, nor shall any misrepresentation, unless material or fraudulent, prevent a recovery on the policy," an applicant for insurance who, in accordance with the agent's advice, states that his property is not encumbered, there being no fraudulent intent, may recover. Manchester Assur. Co. v. Dowell, (Ky. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 207.

Mortgage on Property Not Covered by Policy. — Since a policy on certain personality in a saloon and "such other furniture and fixtures as is usual to saloons" does not cover a safe purchased after the policy took effect, a mortgage on the safe is not within the prohibition in the policy against incumbrances. *Moriarty v. Y. Supp. 986.

Mortgage from One Partner to Another. — Where a policy of fire insurance covering personal property was issued to a partnership, the fact that one member thereof subsequently executed and delivered to another member a mortgage on such property was held not to constitute such an incumbrance as was contemplated by a stipulation in the policy to the effect that it should be void "if the subject of insurance be personal property, and be or become encumbered by a chattel mortgage." Alston v. Phenix Ins. Co., 100 Ga. 287.

Mortgage of Joint Owner's Interest. — A policy issued to the joint owners of property prohibiting incumbrances thereon is forfeited by the placing of a chattel mortgage on his interest by one of such joint owners. Denver Tp. Mut. F. Ins. Co. v. Resor, 95 Ill. App. 197.

Question of Intention. — Where the policy covers several distinct classes of property, the question whether or not the placing of an incumbrance on one of the risks causes a forfeiture of the policy as to all is one of the intention of the parties. If the condition of the property is such that the risk as to one of the classes of property would be affected by the destruction of the other, then it must be presumed that breach of condition as to one class is a violation of the contract as to the other also. If the loss of the one class of property cannot affect the risk as to the other, then it must be presumed that there was no intention that the conditions as to one should apply to the risks as to the other. Taylor v. Anchor Mut. F. Ins. Co., 116 Iowa 625, 93 Am. St. Rep. 261.

Wicker*, 93 Tex. 300, holding that where the policy provides that it shall be void if, at the time of issuance, there be an incumbrance upon the property insured, forfeiture occurs where there is a mortgage in existence at the time when the policy is issued, of which the insurer has no notice, even though the mortgage is discharged before the loss.

Mortgage Paid Before Issuance of Policy. — Although before the issuance of the policy the property has been encumbered by a chattel mortgage and by a judgment and execution thereon, the policy is not avoided thereby where the mortgage and judgment were actually paid, though not satisfied of record, at the date of the policy. Laird v. Littlefield, 34 N. Y. App. Div. 43, affirmed 164 N. Y. 597.

Burden of Proving Discharge of Lien on Insured. — Home F. Ins. Co. v. Johansen, 59 Neb. 349.

260. 3. A New Incumbrance in Lieu of an Existing Incumbrance is not a breach of the condition where the insurer knew of the existing incumbrance at the time of the issuance of the policy. Koshland v. Home Mut. Ins. Co., 31 Oregon 321; Koshland v. Fire Assoc., 31 Oregon 362. But see Insurance Co. of North America v. Wicker, (Tex. Civ. App. 1899) 54 S. W. Rep. 300, affirmed 93 Tex. 390, holding that a mortgage given to other parties constitutes a breach even though the money received thereby was for the payment of an existing incumbrance of which the insurer had notice.

5. Change and Increase in Incumbrance. — A policy provided that it should become void if the property should be encumbered. At the time when the policy was issued the property was encumbered by a mortgage, and another tract belonging to the insured was also encumbered. A portion of the two incumbrances was a common charge on both tracts. After the policy was issued, and before the loss, the insured took up both incumbrances and executed in their stead a mortgage on both tracts for the amount of the old debts with accrued interest. It was held that the fact that the incumbrance on the insured property had been substantially changed and increased in such manner rendered the policy void, and that the court would not seek to ascertain the relative value of the two tracts or the probable manner of enforcement of the mortgages to determine if the risks had been increased. Johansen v. Home F. Ins. Co., 54 Neb. 548.

262. 2. Prior Incumbrances. — Subsequent incumbrances defeat the policy, whether they fall upon the property with or without the knowledge or consent of the insured; this rule also applies where a false statement is made in the application upon which the policy is issued; but judgments which were incumbrances prior to the time of issuing the policy do not invalidate it when it does not appear that the plaintiffs ever made any false statement as to them upon the faith of which the property was insured. *Jacoby v. Effect of Prohibition in Policy Against Waiver by Agent. — Where the agent knows of the existence of an incumbrance at the time he issues the policy, the insurer will be deemed to have waived the provision rendering the policy void if the insured's title is other than an unencumbered title, and this is true even though the policy contains a further provision prohibiting the waiver of any of its terms by any agent, as this clause was intended to operate as a limitation upon the power of the agent to waive or modify the terms of the policy after issuance, and not upon their power to agree upon and settle the terms of the policy before issuance. Flournoy v. Traders' Ins. Co., 80 Mo. App. 655.

Notice to Officer — Effect on Insurer's Rights. — An insurance company cannot be charged with notice of incumbrances which an applicant for insurance had failed to disclose in his application, by evidence that the secretary of the insurance company, who was also secretary of a building association which owned certain of the incumbrances, had, while acting in the latter capacity, acquired knowledge, more than a year before the date of the policy, of the existence of the incumbrances, and that a year and a half after the policy was issued the secretary, again acting for the loan association in a transaction in which the insurance company had no interest, had seen the record of judg-

Making Policy Payable to Other than Insured Not a Waiver. — The mere fact that the insurer procured an indorsement to be made upon the policy making the loss payable to others than the insured, as such persons' interests should appear, does not of itself show a waiver of a breach of the provision, where it is not shown that the insurer had notice of the fact that the persons whose names were so indorsed were mortgagees. Atlas Reduction Co. v. Texas Home F. Ins. Co., 31 Tex. Civ. App. 471.

Investigation of Loss — Stipulation Against Waiver. — The inference of waiver from the fact that the agent of the insured investigates the loss and determines the amount of damages is negated by a stipulation in the policy that such an investigation, in case of loss, was not to be deemed a waiver of any objection to the liability of the insurer under the policy, and also by a written agreement between the insured and the agent that the investigation and adjustment should not waive or invalidate any of the conditions of the policy or any rights of either party. *Hayes v. "Occupation" of Dwelling House. — "Occupation" of a dwelling house means living in it. The uses for which premises are intended should be considered in determining what is meant by the word "unoccupied" as contained in a policy. Hoover v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co., 93 Mo. App. 111.

5. Notice Not Presumed. — Thomas v. Hartford F. Ins. Co., (Ky. 1899) 53 S. W. Rep. 297, rehearing denied (1899) 56 S. W. Rep. 264; Bartlett v. British America Assur. Co., 35 Wash. 525, holding further that failure to make inquiry is not a waiver.

Failure to Inspect in Accordance with Statute. — Noncompliance on part of the insurer with the provisions of the Minnesota statute requiring examination by the insurer of the premises insured does not charge the insurer with notice that the premises are vacant. Aiple v. Boston Ins. Co., 92 Minn. 337.

6. Knowledge of Subsequent Vacancy Not a Waiver. — Hanscom v. Home Ins. Co., 90 Me. 333, holding, however, that failure to claim a forfeiture for nonoccupancy may operate as a waiver. Compare Wilson v. Commercial Union Assur. Co., 51 S. Car. 540, 64 Am. St. Rep. 700.

Retention of Unearned Premium After Knowledge of Vacancy Not Waiver While Breach Continues. — Stephens v. Phenix Assur. Co., 85 Ill. App. 671.

Recognition of Policy After Knowledge of Vacancy. — If the insurer, with knowledge of the facts by reason whereof it is entitled to insist upon forfeiture, continues to recognize the policy as in force, or does any act inconsistent with insistence upon the forfeiture, the forfeiture is waived, and may not be relied upon thereafter. Hunt v. State Ins. Co., 66 Neb. 121.

Waiver by General Agent Valid. — Wilson v. Commercial Union Assur. Co., 51 S. Car. 540, 64 Am. St. Rep. 700.

Condition Against Waiver by Agent. — Where the policy provides that no officer, agent, or representative of the insurer shall be held to have waived any of the conditions of the policy unless the waiver shall be indorsed thereon in writing, the provision is a direct limitation on the authority of the agent of which the insured is charged with notice, and he cannot avail himself of a waiver made by the agent in violation of the provision. Hunt v. State Ins. Co., 66 Neb. 121.

281. 1. Permit Commences to Operate on Delivery of Policy to Agent. — Sullivan v. Germania F. Ins. Co., 89 Mo. App. 106.

One Who Relies on the Statement of the Insurer's Agent that a vacancy permit has been granted and attached to the policy may recover for loss occurring during the life of the permit. Morgan v. Illinois Ins. Co., 130 Mich. 427.

Provision Decreasing Amount of Insurance While Permit Operates Valid. — Sullivan v. Germania F. Ins. Co., 89 Mo. App. 106.

Grant of Permit by Agent After Revocation of Agency. — It has been held that where a permit for vacancy is granted to the insured by the agent through whom his policy was issued, the permit is valid though before it was granted the agency had been terminated, where the insured had no notice of the revocation of the agency. Wilson v. Commercial Union Assur. Co., 51 S. Car. 540, 64 Am. St. Rep. 700.

Co., (Ky. 1899) 53 S. W. Rep. 297, rehearing denied (1899) 56 S. W. Rep. 264. Compare Hoover v. Mercantile Town Mut. Ins. Co., 93 Mo. App. 111; Couch v. Farmers' F. Ins. Co., 64 N. Y. App. Div. 367.

Notice to Agent Notice to Insurer. — Hunt v. State Ins. Co., 66 Neb. 121.

Loss After Termination of Vacancy. — If the loss occurs while the vacancy continues to exist, the company is not necessarily rendered liable because, knowing the fact, it has not meantime forfeited the policy. But if it does not exercise its right in this respect, and the premises are again occupied, and are not vacant or unoccupied when the loss occurs, the liability on the policy again attaches. Sufficiency of Evidence. — In Omaha F. Ins. Co. v. Sinnott, 54 Neb. 522, it was held that where a tenant had only removed a portion of his furniture from an insured tenement house at the time of its destruction by fire, the finding of a jury adverse to the contention of the insurance company, that at the time of the loss the house was unoccupied, in violation of the terms of the policy, would not be disturbed as being without sufficient evidence to sustain it.

tion of the policy, if the insured has not been injured by such breach, or where a loss has not occurred during the breach or by reason of the breach, the failure of the insured to keep a watchman on the premises on Sunday in accordance with the provisions of the policy does not relieve the insurer from liability for loss occurring by fire during the week; *McGannon v. Actual Injury Not Essential. — The rule that false swearing must be such as will be liable to work an injury to the insurer, in order that the policy shall be forfeited thereby, does not render it necessary that injury actually take place. It is sufficient if there be false swearing to the actual prejudice of the insurer, or which is liable to have that effect. And where the policy covers a building and its contents and the entire property is destroyed, false swearing as to any portion of the loss is sufficient to forfeit the policy as to the entire loss.

West Virginia. — Maupin v. Scottish Union, etc., Ins. Co., 53 W. Va. 557.

Clause Contained in Rider to Policy. — The fact that the clause is contained in a rider attached to the policy and not in the policy itself does not render it any the less a part of the contract, where other matter contained in the rider is essential to render the contract complete. King v. Concordia F. Ins. Co., (Mich. 1905) 103 N. W. Rep. 616.

Provision Appended to Policy and Referred to Therein Becomes Part of Contract. — Couch v. Home Protective F. Ins. Co., 32 Tex. Civ. App. 44.

the insurer to indemnify the insured is sufficient consideration to support the clause. King v. Concordia F. Ins. Co., (Mich. 1905) 103 N. W. Rep. 616.

Necessity that Breach Contribute to Loss. — Under the Iowa statute a breach of the provision must have contributed to the loss in order to be a defense. Johnson v. Farmers' Ins. Co., 126 Iowa 565.

Entire and Divisible Contracts — Partial Breach. — Where the clause applies to only one class of several covered by the policy, the violation of the clause does not prevent recovery for the goods to which it did not apply. Sun Mut. Ins. Co. v. Tufts, 20 Tex. Civ. App. 147. See also Hanover F. Ins. Co. v. Crawford, 121 Ala. 258, 77 Am. St. Rep. 55 (insurance on realty not avoided).

So where the policy covers several classes of goods, each class being separate from the other and insured for its specific amount, and there is a breach of the iron-safe clause as to one class of the property, the contract should be considered not as one entire in itself, but as one which is severable, and in which the separate amounts specified may be distinguished, and a recovery had for one or more of them without regard to the other, provided the contract is not affected by any question of fraud, act condemned by public policy, or increase of the risk of the company on the whole property insured because of the breach. Miller v. Delaware Ins. Co., 14 Okla. 81.

But where a policy, the consideration for which is a premium payable in a gross sum, insures both the building and a stock of merchandise therein contained, and provides that in the event the insured fails to take an inventory of the goods at the time specified the policy shall be void from such date, a breach of this stipulation avoids the insurance on the building as well as on the stock of goods. *Southern F. What Constitutes Disagreement — Phoenix Ins. Co. v. Carnahan, 63 Ohio St. 258.

A Written Statement of Disagreement and the Selection of an Appraiser by the parties is sufficient evidence of disagreement. Fowle v. Phoenix Ins. Co., 106 Mo. App. 527.

Where the insurer, knowing the amount claimed by the insured, demands arbitration, this act on its part indicates a disagreement between the parties. The fact that both parties entered into the arbitration is also conclusive proof that such disagreement existed as justified arbitration. Kersey v. Phoenix Ins. Co., 135 Mich. 10.

Where a mere examination by the appraisers is insufficient to inform them as to the character of the property before the fire, and they cannot, without some evidence, know the sound value of the property or the loss and damage, it is their duty to give notice to both parties of the time and place of hearing and require evidence in respect of facts which they could not otherwise know, and a failure to do so will invalidate the award. Continental Ins. Co. v. Garrett, (C. C. A.) 125 Fed. Rep. 589.

But it has been held that in the absence of bad faith lack of notice is not ground for setting aside the award. Townsend v. Greenwich Ins. Co., 86 N. Y. App. Div. 323, affirmed 178 N. Y. 634.

Right of Insured to Hearing. — The insured is entitled to appear before the arbitrators and to be heard, and to offer evidence touching his loss. A denial of this right by the arbitrators is ground for setting aside the award. Redner v. New York F. Ins. Co., 92 Minn. 306.

In Schrepfer v. Rockford Ins. Co., 77 Minn. 291, it was held that the provision that the loss should be payable within sixty days after the submission of proofs of loss was not absolute, but that in case of a reference it would not be payable until the referees had made their award, providing the insured was not at fault in delaying the reference.

379. 1. The Provision of the Standard Policy as to the conclusiveness of the value of the property destroyed and the amount of loss and damage must be construed in connection with the provisions of the statute limiting the liability of the insurer to the actual cash value of the property at the time of loss, except where otherwise provided by statute, and providing that the liability shall not exceed what it would then cost the insured to repair or replace the property, and giving to the insurer the optional right to rebuild. Temple v. Niagara F. Ins. Co., 109 Wis. 372.

Under the Ohio Statute, a provision in a policy giving to the insurer the option to rebuild in case of total loss is void. Milwaukee Mechanics Ins. Co. v. Russell, 65 Ohio St. 230; Security F. Ins. Co. v. McFarland, 12 Ohio Cir. Dec. 591.

4. City Ordinance Precluding Rebuilding. — Larkin v. Glens Falls Ins. Co., 80 Minn. 527, 81 Am. St. Rep. 286. See also supra, this title, 324. 1.

"Where the law prohibits the repair of a building which has been partially destroyed by fire, in the absence of any express provision in the policy to the contrary, the loss is not measured by the sum required to restore the building to its condition before the fire, but it is total, less the value of the remaining materials for removal. Since the change in the building is caused solely by the fire, the difference in its value caused by that change is loss or damage by fire within the meaning of the policy, in the absence of anything therein to the contrary. The principle is the same whether its application results in a total loss, or in an increase of a partial loss." Hewins v. London Assur. Corp., 184 Mass. 177.

Jenkins, (1901) 2 Ch. 401, 70 L. J. Ch. 730, 49 W. R. 615, 65 J. P. 631.

Rights in Hawaii. — "A right within certain metes and bounds to set apart one species of fish to the owner's sole use, or alternatively, to put a taboo on all fishing within the limits for certain months and to receive from all fishermen one-third of the fish taken upon the fishing grounds, * * * is somewhat different from those familiar to the common law, but it seems to be well known to Hawaii, and, if it is established, there is no more theoretical difficulty in regarding it as property and a vested right than there is regarding any ordinary easement or profit à prendre as such." Damon v. Hawaii, 194 U. S. 154.

Vermont Statute — Owner of Land. — A party owning the exclusive right to fish upon the lands of another is the "owner" of the land within the provision of a Vermont statute which provides for a forfeiture of ten dollars by a person who wilfully enters upon such lands without the permission of the owner or occupant, for the purpose of fishing, trapping, or shooting thereon, "to be recovered by the owner thereof in an action of trespass, in addition to the damages sustained thereby." *Payne v. 2. Notwithstanding Magna Charta, the king still retained the right to grant the soil under navigable waters, and with it the exclusive right of fishery. Rockefeller v. Lamora, 85 N. Y. App. Div. 254.

Exclusive Grant Will Not Be Presumed. — Sutter v. Heckman, 1 Alaska 81, 188; Slingerland v. International Contracting Co., 43 N. Y. App. Div. 215, affirmed 169 N. Y. 60.

The Organic Act of the Territory of Hawaii repealed all laws of the Republic of Hawaii which conferred exclusive fishing rights, subject, however, to vested rights; and the Hawaiian Act of 1846 with royal grants previously made created and confirmed rights in favor of land-lords in adjacent fishing grounds within the reef or one mile to seaward which were vested rights within the organic act above referred to. Damon v. Hawaii, 194 U. S. 154.

2. In New York it is probable that section 18 of article 3 of the Constitution would prohibit the legislature from granting to any individual or association the exclusive right of fishery in any of the navigable waters of the state; for such a grant would be in the nature of an exclusive privilege or franchise. Rockefeller v. Lamora, 85 N. Y. App. Div. 254.

566. 7. Right to Cultivate Oysters in Navigable Waters. — Oysters which one plants in a marked-off bed in such a way as not to interfere with navigation or public fishing are thus captured and subjected to private ownership. Slingerland v. International Contracting Co., 43 N. Y. App. Div. 220, affirmed 169 N. Y. 60.

Ownership of the Land whereon the oysters are deposited is not a prerequisite to ownership in the oysters. If a party is guilty of trespass in planting or cultivating oysters on the lands of another, such fact does not authorize the owner of the land to take those oysters to his own use, although he might compel the trespasser to take them up, or might remove them as a nuisance. Vroom v. Tilly, 99 N. Y. App. Div. 516. See also Davis v. Davis, 72 N. Y. App. Div. 593.

Rights in Massachusetts. — Where a party is licensed "to plant, grow, and dig oysters" on certain flats, under Pub. Stat. Mass., c. 91, § 97, by § 99, this gives him the exclusive use of the flats and one has no right to dig quohaugs thereon. Griffith v. Savary, 181 Mass. 227.

the exclusive right of fishing in the same, though the land lying under the water may belong to another. Accordingly, a conveyance of land lying upon the natural bank of an unnavigable stream, upon which is located a mill standing on other land of the grantor and across which is a dam, causing a pond a portion of which covers a part of the land conveyed, does not pass to the grantee any right to fish in such pond at any point below the then existing high-water mark thereof, when by terms of the conveyance an exception is made in the grantor's favor as to "all water privileges up to high-water mark, and all other privileges in going to his mill." Lee v. Mallard, 116 Ga. 18.

The public may take fish from a lake, where fish migrate at times between a public river and the lake, even though the lake is stocked by the owner of the land on which the lake is situated, and the surrounding land is posted. People v. Horling, (Mich. 1904) 100 N. W. Rep. 691.

Powers of States Broader than Those of Crown in England. — Com. v. Hilton, 174 Mass. 29.

Source of Power. — The authority to enact these limitations flows from the power to prohibit, and this rests on the proposition that the individual has no vested right in fish not reduced to possession. State v. Dow, 70 N. H. 286.

Jurisdiction — River on State Boundary. — The enforcement by the state of Minnesota of its fish and game laws on the Wisconsin side of the main channel of the Mississippi river is not justifiable on the theory of common ownership of the river or things in or on or under the same on the Wisconsin side of the main channel. Roberts v. Fullerton, 117 Wis. 222.

Canning Business. — In Maine the policy of law seeks to regulate the canning business, for the purpose of protecting the fishing industry, by preventing the decimation of herring on the coast of Maine. State v. Kaufman, 98 Me. 546.

2. Power of Legislature to Prescribe Penalties for the Violation of Fishery Regulations. — State v. Meek, 112 Iowa 338, 84 Am. St. Rep. 342.

Fish Caught Outside of State. — There is no ownership by the state, or by the people in their collective capacity, in the game or fish taken or killed outside the borders of the state, for it is not a food supply which belongs in common to all people of the state. Therefore, fish caught without the borders of the state are not subject to the limitations and restrictions that are imposed on the ownership or possession of fish caught within its borders. *McDonald v. The "Lacy Act" provides in substance that foreign game when transported into any state shall be subject to the laws of that state, enacted in the exercise of its police powers, to the same extent as if such game had been produced in such state, and shall not be exempt therefrom by reason of importation in original packages. 31 U. S. Stat. L., c. 553, p. 187. See People v. Bootman, 180 N. Y. 6; People v. Booth, 105 N. Y. App. Div. 184, reversing (Supm. Ct. Tr. T.) 42 Misc. (N. Y.) 321; People v. Bootman, 180 N. Y. 1, affirming 95 N. Y. App. Div. 469, as to the effect of this act. In the latter case it was said: "The action of Congress has taken away all questions of interstate commerce, so that the state can act with entire freedom and can prevent the shipment of game into or out of its own territory; and if game is imported, it can regulate or prohibit the sale thereof. Such provisions are warranted by the police power, and are not in conflict with either the state or Federal Constitution."

Canada. — Reg. v. Vachon, 3 Can. Crim. Cas. (British Columbia) 558.

In Michigan a party is criminally liable under the statute, for catching fish in a lake by an unlawful device, where fish migrated at times from a public river to the lake; even though the party owned the land under and surrounding the lake, posted the premises, and stocked the lake. People v. Horling, (Mich. 1904) 100 N. W. Rep. 691.

In New Jersey under an indictment for unlawfully dredging oysters (Act March 22, 1901), it is not necessary for the state to prove that the oyster bed in question had been marked, buoyed, or staked by or under the supervision of the state oyster commission. State v. Lee, 70 N. J. L. 368, affirmed (N. J. 1905) 59 Atl. Rep. 1118.

Act N. J., March 22, 1901, known as the "Rough Cull Law," makes it a misdemeanor for any person engaged in dredging oysters from any of the beds and the grounds above the "southwest line under the waters of Delaware River, Delaware Bay, and Maurice River Cove," to neglect or refuse to cull such oysters, oyster shells, and other materials as soon as they are emptied out of the dredges on the deck of the vessel. State v. Hand, 71 N. J. L. 137.

Evidence. — Under the New York statute the possession of the fish or game at the forbidden season, within the state, is prima facie evidence that the possessor has violated the law, and the burden is then cast upon him of proving facts to show that the possession was lawful. People v. Buffalo Fish Co., 164 N. Y. 99, affirming 45 N. Y. App. Div. 631, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 30 Misc. (N. Y.) 130.

Evidence that a person was seen on the river in a canoe between certain hours at night with the appliances commonly used in illegal fishing, in the absence of any explanation of the situation and where the charge was not denied on oath, was held to be sufficient to justify a conviction for illegal fishing. Rex v. Fraser, 36 N. Bruns. 209.

Variance. — Where it is specifically charged that the catching of fish was by means of dynamite, the proof must show that dynamite was used. Gill v. State, 45 Tex. Crim. 256.

An indictment, under Pen. Code Ga., § 588, for removing oysters from a private oyster bed, is not supported by proof showing that the accused persons took oysters from a bed situated between high-water mark and low-water mark upon the shore of an inlet of the sea, title to the bed not being shown to exist in any private person. Johnson v. State, 114 Ga. 790.

Where it was charged that the defendant used a seine in a certain lake, and the evidence was that the seine was set during high water in an overflowed field covered with water from the lake, there was a fatal variance. State v. Weeks, 88 Mo. App. 263.

Locus of Offense. — A complaint for illegal fishing charged the locus to be in the waters of the Grand river, in the township of Grand Haven, in the county of Ottawa, and counsel requested the court to instruct the jury that if the fishing was done within the limits of the city of Grand Haven, and not within the township, they must acquit. This was refused, the court instructing them that it was sufficient to convict if the act was done within the county of Ottawa. The instruction was held correct. People v. Van Maren, 126 Mich. 103.

People v. Knauber, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 27 Misc. (N. Y.) 253. Compare People v. Knauber, 43 N. Y. App. Div. 342.

591. 1. The word ittings in an indictment charging the defendant with receiving a certain lot of brass ittings, knowing the same to have been stolen, is demurrable as being too general. In this case there are several dictionary definitions of the word. Brown v. State, 116 Ga. 559.

"Whenever chattels have been placed in and annexed to a building by their owner as a part of the means by which to carry out the purposes for which the building was erected or to which it has been adapted, and with the intention of permanently increasing its value for the use to which it is devoted, they become, as between the owner and his mortgagee, fixtures, and as much a part of the realty as the building itself; and this is true notwithstanding that such chattels may be severed from and taken out of the building in which they are located, without doing any injury either to them or to it, and advantageously used elsewhere, and notwithstanding that the building itself may thereafter readily be devoted to a use entirely different from that which was contemplated when the annexation was made." Per Gummere, C.

2. Foreible Entry Not Essential to Unlawful Detainer. — Kennedy v. Dickie, 27 Mont. 70.

The Oklahoma Statute which provides that "every person guilty of using or procuring, encouraging, or assisting another to use any force or violence in entering upon or detaining any lands or possessions of another," etc., is guilty of a misdemeanor, creates and defines two distinct offenses — one for forcibly entering upon or detaining lands of another, and the other for forcibly entering upon or detaining the possession of another. "Lands," as here used, implies title or ownership, while "possession" implies only possessory interests or rights. Foust v. Territory, 8 Okla. 541.

Record of Payment Required. — The Arkansas statute has no application to a written agreement between the parties extending the time of payment of the notes. Austin v. Steele, 68 Ark. 348.

Payment After Debt Is Barred by Statute of Limitations. — In Ewbank v. Ewbank, 64 S. Car. 434, it was held that a payment made on a note secured by an equitable mortgage after the statute had barred both the note and the mortgage, revived both the note and the mortgage.

8. Payments by a Husband on his individual note secured by a mortgage executed by both himself and his wife will prevent the statute from running against the mortgage. Skinner v. Moore, 64 Kan. 360, 91 Am. St. Rep. 244.

Payment by Mortgages in Possession. — Where there are three mortgages on property and it is conveyed to the mortgagees without any provision as to the order in which the rents are to be applied in paying the mortgages, a payment on the first mortgage tolls the statute of limitations. Leach v. Curtin, 123 N. Car. 85.

796. 8. Statutory Provisions. — Under the California statute a letter from the debtor to the creditor acknowledging the debt and casually mentioning the mortgage does not operate to stop the running of the statute of limitations against the mortgage lien. Southern Pac. Co. v. Prosser, (Cal. 1898) 52 Pac. Rep. 836, reversed 122 Cal. 413.

9. Acknowledgment by Husband of Debt Secured on Homestead. — In Fuller v. McMahan, 64 Kan. 441, where a wife joined with her husband in making a note and in giving a mortgage on their homestead as security, it was held that an acknowledgment of liability by the husband barred the statute of limitations from running against the mortgage.

6. Rule that Absence of Mortgagor Does Not Suspend Statute. — Hogaboom v. Flower, 67 Kan. 47.

Rule as to Grantee of Mortgagor. — In George v. Butler, 26 Wash. 456, 90 Am. St. Rep. 756, it was held that the absence of the mortgagor from the state did not suspend the statute of limitations from running in favor of his grantee of the mortgaged premises.

7. What Is Commencement of Proceeding. — In the case of a chattel mortgage the bringing of an action of replevin to recover possession of the chattels bars the running of the statute of limitation. McDonald v. Hutchinson Wholesale Grocer Co., 65 Kan. 17.

8. Failure to File Notice Not Available to Purchaser from Defendant After Decree. — London, etc., Bank v. Horton, (C. C. A.) 126 Fed. Rep. 593.

Effect of Failure to File Notice. — A failure to file notice does not injuriously affect the title of a purchaser at a foreclosure sale where no conveyance from the owner of the equity of redemption was recorded before the purchaser recorded his deed. Stuyvesant v. Weil, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 26 Misc. (N. Y.) 445, reversed 41 N. Y. App. Div. 551.

804. 4. Claim Arising Out of Tort. — A claim for waste of the premises that in no wise arises out of the mortgage relation cannot be set up in a foreclosure suit. McMichael v. Webster, 57 N. J. Eq. 295, 73 Am. St. Rep. 630.

808. 4. Failure to Secure Consent to Assignment of Insurance. — In Ottawa First Nat. Bank v. Renn, 63 Kan. 334, it appeared that it was the duty of the mortgagee to secure the consent of a fire insurance company to any change of ownership in the premises. The mortgagor sold the premises, and the mortgagee neglected to secure the consent of the insurance company to the change of ownership, thus rendering the policy void. It was held that the resulting loss by fire might be set up as a counterclaim in an action to foreclose the mortgage.

gage provides for a reasonable allowance in case of foreclosure, in estimating the allowance to be made the court should consider the reasonable value of the services of the attorney rather than the amount involved in the mortgage. Wattson v. Jones, 101 Ill. App. 572.

Evidence. — In Unity Co. v. Equitable Trust Co., 204 Ill. 595, where a deed of trust provided for the payment of an attorney's fee in case of foreclosure, it was held to be proper for the court, after the evidence in chief at the foreclosure trial had been received, to receive evidence of the reasonable worth of the attorney's services.

825. 2. Instances of Allowances Deemed Reasonable. — In Wright v. Neely, 100 Ill. App. 310, an allowance of seven hundred and fifty dollars was held to be reasonable in a foreclosure proceeding involving thirty-eight thousand seven hundred and twenty-five dollars.

In Follansbee v. Northwestern Mut. L. Ins. Co., 87 Ill. App. 609, an allowance of one thousand two hundred dollars was held to be proper where the decree exclusive of the allowance was over forty thousand dollars.

In Surety Loan, etc., Co. v. Kick, 90 Ill. App. 231, an allowance of two hundred dollars as an attorney fee for foreclosing a mortgage of five thousand dollars was held to be reasonable.

An allowance of two hundred dollars as an attorney fee for foreclosing a mortgage of fourteen thousand dollars is reasonable. Hazleton v. Birdie, 10 Kulp (Pa.) 98.

829. 4. A Foreclosure Order Nisi does not destroy the power of sale, because the remedies of the mortgagee are only suspended for the purpose of carrying out that particular relief which he has sought. Stevens v. Theatres, (1903) 1 Ch. 857, 72 L. J. Ch. 764, 88 L. T. N. S. 458, 51 W. R. 585.

FOREIGN EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS

BY ALFRED PIZEY.

916. I. DEFINITIONS — A Foreign Executor or Administrator. — See note 1.
An Ancillary Administrator. — See note 2.

II. TERRITORIAL LIMITATION OF AUTHORITY OF REPRESENTATIVE —

1. Common-law Rule — a. IN GENERAL. — See note 3.

919. III. DISTINCTION BETWEEN PRINCIPAL AND ANCILLARY ADMINISTRATIONS. — See note 4.

916. 1. Definitions. — A foreign executor is one who derives his authority from another state or nation. McCahan v. Reeder, 10 Pa. Dist. 298, 25 Pa. Co. Ct. 148.

By the phrase "foreign executor" the courts never mean the mere nonresidence of the individual holding the office, but the foreign origin of the representative character. Hopper v. Hopper, 125 N. Y. 400, quoted with approval Flandrow v. Hammond, 13 N. Y. App. Div. 325, and Courtney v. Pradt, 135 Fed. Rep. 818.

2. Ancillary Administrator Defined. — Steele v. Connecticut Gen. L. Ins. Co., 31 N. Y. App. Div. 389, affirmed on opinion below 160 N. Y. 703.

3. Letters Testamentary or of Administration Have No Extraterritorial Effect — United States. — Overby v. Gordon, 177 U. S. 214, affirming 13 App. Cas. (D. C.) 392; Filer, etc., Co. v. Rainey, 120 Fed. Rep. 718; Williams v. Camden Interstate R. Co., 138 Fed. Rep. 571.

Alabama. — Grayson v. Robertson, 122 Ala. 336, 82 Am. St. Rep. 80; Johnston v. McKinnon, 129 Ala. 223.

Kentucky. — Purdy v. Purdy, (Ky. 1897) 42 S. W. Rep. 89.

Missouri. — Emmons v. Gordon, 140 Mo. 490, 62 Am. St. Rep. 734.

Nebraska. — Burton v. Williams, 63 Neb. 431.

New York. — Maas v. German-Sav. Bank, 73 N. Y. App. Div. 524 [reversing (Supm. Ct. App. T.) 36 Misc. (N. Y.) 154, which affirmed (N. Y. City Ct. Gen. T.) 35 Misc. (N. Y.) 193], affirmed 176 N. Y. 377.

Ohio. — Matter of Crawford, 11 Ohio Cir. Dec. 605, 21 Ohio Cir. Ct. 554, affirmed 68 Ohio St. 58.

Pennsylvania. — Viosca's Estate, 197 Pa. St. 280, affirming 29 Pittsb. Leg. J. N. S. (Pa.) 299; Mansfield v. McFarland, 24 Pa. Co. Ct. 591, affirmed 202 Pa. St. 173.

South Carolina. — In re Neubert, 58 S. Car. 469.

The Domicil of a Married Woman is that of her husband within this rule. McPherson v. McPherson, 70 Mo. App. 330.

Testate Estates—New York Statute.—The New York Code preserves a marked distinction between wills admitted to probate in that state and those which are permitted to be filed or recorded on the production of an exemplified record of probate in a foreign state. On wills of the latter class the surrogate's power is limited to the issue of ancillary letters testamentary, or ancillary letters of administration with the will annexed. Baldwin v. Rice, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 44 Misc. (N. Y.) 64, modified and affirmed 100 N. Y. App. Div. 241.

920. 1. An Ancillary Administration Is Subordinate.—Taylor v. Syme, 162 N. Y. 513, 31 Civ. Pro. (N. Y.) 1, reversing on other grounds 17 N. Y. App. Div. 517.

Ancillary Administration Not Dependent on Administration of Domicil.—Murphy v. Crouse, 135 Cal. 14, 87 Am. St. Rep. 90.

The ancillary administration is an entirely independent administration. Winter v. Winter, 101 Wis. 494.

Each Administration May Be Considered as a Principal One.—Cooper v. Ives, 62 Kan. 395.

4. No Privy Between Ancillary and Domiciliary Representatives.—Johnston v. McKinnon, 129 Ala. 223; Doss v. Stevens, 13 Colo. App. 535; American Missionary Assoc. v. Hall, (Mich. 1904) 101 N. W. Rep. 535, 11 Detroit Leg. N. 562; Price v. Ward, 25 Nev. 203.

Application by Nonresident Creditors.—Matter of Gennert, 96 N. Y. App. Div. 8.

Legacy under Domestic Will Left to Decedent's "Personal Representatives."—A colonial grant of letters will be resealed in England, though the decedent left no estate there, where a legacy is payable to his "personal representatives," under a domestic will. In Goods of Sanders, (1900) P. 292.

922. 1. Necessity of Ancillary Appointment—Collection of Local Assets.—In some jurisdictions it is provided by statute that domiciliary representatives appointed in other states shall have full power to sue, etc. (see infra, this title, 953. 4 et seq.); and where such statutes have been enacted, the necessity for ancillary administration is thereby largely dispensed with. Thus, the Ohio statute limits ancillary administration to cases where the decedent was a non-resident engaged in business in Ohio at the time of his death, restricting the right of appointment in such cases to creditors of the decedent.

Under such statute it is held that while the court has jurisdiction in the premises, ancillary administration is not favored and should only be granted when required to preserve an estate or to secure the payment of the claim of a resident creditor. In re McCreight, 9 Ohio Dec. 450, 454.

Compare Mansfield v. McFarland, 202 Pa. St. 173, affirming 24 Pa. Co. Ct. 591, holding that the nonexistence of local creditors cannot legally be known until after an exhibition of an account by an ancillary administrator and the statutory notice to creditors to present their claims is given.

Under the California Statute providing for administration upon the estate of any nonresident who has died leaving property in the state, it has been held not to be necessary to show that there are creditors, or that the property requires care to preserve it, in order to obtain the letters. Murphy v. Crouse, 135 Cal. 14, 87 Am. St. Rep. 90.

7. Exceptions Growing Out of Special Circumstances. — Matter of McCabe, 84 N. Y. App. Div. 145, affirmed without opinion 177 N. Y. 584.

If assets of a nonresident are brought into the state solely for the purpose of the appointment of an administrator to prosecute a negligence action against a foreign corporation on a cause of action arising in, and between residents of, another state, such appointment, if made, is fraudulent and collusive, and under the New York statute declaring the effect of surrogates' decrees may be collaterally attacked on that ground. Hoes v. New York, etc., R. Co., 173 N. Y. 435, reversing 73 N. Y. App. Div. 363.

Where the executor of a will which disposes of all the property of the testator wherever situated has renounced, the attorney of the person appointed by the foreign court is entitled to administration, though the latter is the official administrator and the foreign grant is made subject to any orders of the court touching the collection, management, and administration of the assets. In Goods of Scarr, 80 L. T. N. S. 296.

In California if the executor fails to apply himself, "letters of administration with the will annexed must be issued as designated and provided for the grant of letters in cases of intestacy." Code Civ. Pro., § 1350. A person interested in the will who applies for such letters is entitled to the grant, Matter of Engle, 124 Cal. 292. Section 2697 limits the issue of such letters to the person named in the foreign letters or to the person otherwise entitled to the possession of the personal property of the decedent "unless another person applies therefor, and files with his petition an instrument executed by the foreign executor or administrator or person otherwise entitled as aforesaid, authorizing the petitioner to receive such ancillary letters." *Baldwin v. The title of an ancillary administrator to the assets of his decedent is no different from that of a principal or domestic administrator, unless it is provided otherwise by statute. Smith v. New York Second Nat. Bank, 169 N. Y. 467, reversing mem. judgment 52 N. Y. App. Div. 631.

The common-law rule as to title does not prevail in some states. Thus, in California, both real and personal property descend to the heir or to the beneficiary named in the will, with a qualified right in the personal representative, who holds it for the purpose of administration more like a receiver than a common-law executor. The title is not in him, nor has he the power of disposal, save by order of the court. Murphy v. Crouse, 135 Cal. 14, 87 Am. St. Rep. 90. See also the title EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS.

A statute providing that "every person" having a claim proper to be allowed who shall not present it within a designated period of time shall be "forever barred," applies to the claim of a nonresident whether sought to be enforced within the jurisdiction of a domiciliary or of an ancillary administration. Winter v. Winter, 101 Wis. 494; Fields v. Mundy, 106 Wis. 383, 80 Am. St. Rep. 39.

Jurisdiction of Federal Courts to Establish Claims of Foreign Creditors. — That a nonresident creditor may establish his claim or debt in the courts of the United States against the personal representatives of his deceased debtor, the requisite amount and diversity of citizenship appearing, is well settled, notwithstanding that the laws of the state of the debtor's residence relative to the settlement and administration of estates of deceased persons in terms limit the right to establish such claims to proceedings in the proper probate courts of the state. *Alice E. termine his official responsibilities or duties. Egan v. Wirth, 26 R. I. 363.

The probate court at the accounting of an ancillary representative is vested with authority to consider only the subject-matter of the property taken by him under the ancillary letters, and to make a decree disposing of such property, and none other. Joy v. Elton, 9 N. Dak. 428.

An ancillary administrator cannot be required to file an account, in the absence of creditors in the ancillary jurisdiction, where he has voluntarily paid the money collected by him to the administrator of the domicil, who has accounted for it there. Thomas's Estate, 8 Pa. Dist. 385.

Character of Proceedings for Accounting. — The proceedings have been said to be not, as a rule, in personam but in rem, and if regular, binding upon all persons equally, whether they appear personally to take part in the controversies or proceedings or hold themselves aloof; and they are within section 1, art. 4, of the Federal Constitution, requiring full faith and credit to be given in each state to the judicial proceedings of every other state. Matter of Crawford, 11 Ohio Cir. 963. 4. Equity Jurisdiction to Compel Foreign Representatives to Account. — Lewis v. Parrish, (C. C. A.) 115 Fed. Rep. 285 (construing New York law).

If any law of the foreign state or decree of its court requires the ancillary representative to do anything, he may be protected in doing it, but subject to this limitation the assets recovered there belong to the general estate which he must account for in the domiciliary jurisdiction. Matter of Newell, (Surrogate Ct.) 38 Misc. Compensation of Ancillary Representative. — A balance due the representative as ancillary administrator for compensation, allowed by the court of the foreign jurisdiction, is a proper credit in the settlement of his account as domiciliary administrator. Doss v. Stevens, 13 Col. App. 535.

Where an ancillary administrator took the assets of the estate to the domiciliary jurisdiction, there accounted for them as executor and received commissions thereon in a larger sum than allowed by statute in the ancillary jurisdiction or than was warranted by the time, trouble, and labor expended, he will not be allowed commissions in a suit in equity to compel him to account as ancillary administrator. Porter v. Long, 136 Mich. 150, 10 Detroit Leg. N. 987.

Test of Validity. — In Cagle v. State, 39 Tex. Crim. 109, it was held that it might be considered a safe test if the instrument is such on its face that it imports an obligation in regard to money or property, and will afford the basis of a civil action without resorting to extrinsic testimony.

4. Orders for Money. — People v. Walkey, 26 Colo. 483; State v. Hauser, 112 La. 313; Hanks v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 54 S. W. Rep. 587; Plemons v. State, 44 Tex. Crim. 555; Thomas v. State, 40 Tex. Crim. 562, 76 Am. St. Rep. 740.

Without Revenue Stamp. — An order for money, which requires a revenue stamp, is the subject of forgery although it is unstamped. Thomas v. State, 40 Tex. Crim. 562, 76 Am. St. Rep. 740. See also Hanks v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1899) 54 S. W. Rep. 587.

State Certificate Promising Payment of Money.

— A bounty certificate entitling the destroyer of fish nets to certain payments from the county treasurer, under Laws N. Y. 1898, p. 1158, c. 451, was held to fall within Pen. Code N. Y., § 509, making it forgery in the first degree to forge a certificate issued under the authority of the state by which the payment of money is promised. People v. Filkin, 83 N. Y. App. Div. 589, affirmed 176 N. Y. 548.

1095. 1. Orders for Goods. — State v. Alexander, 113 La. 747; People v. Palmer, 127 Mich. 383; People v. Phillips, 118 Mich. 699, 74 Am. St. Rep. 436.

A Mere Gratuitous Order from A to B to let C have such goods as he may desire, without any obligation upon C to comply with such order, and without obligating A to pay for the goods that B might let C have on such order, is not the subject of forgery. West v. State, 45 Fla. 118.

Order For Livery Rig. — A statement in the following form is the subject of forgery: "Mr. Sage: Please let this boy have a single rig — a good one — and oblige. I will bring it back myself. [Signed] George Klinger." Hickson v. State, 61 Neb. 763.

12. Having Forged Will in Possession During Lifetime of Purported Testator. — Under an indictment for having in possession a forged will with intent to utter the same, the death of the purported testator must be shown in order to sustain a conviction. There can be no illegal uttering of such a will — much less, having the same in possession with intent to utter — during the lifetime of the purported testator. Huckaby v. State, 45 Tex. Crim. 577.

1105. 5. Giving Engraving of Bond as Specimen of Skill. — While a copy of a bond prepared for a corporation is not a forgery when innocently retained by the engraver and given out as a sample, yet if a third person offer it as genuine, knowing it not to be so, he is guilty of uttering a forged instrument, although he makes no alteration therein. In re Count De Toulouse Lautrec, (C. C. A.) 102 Fed. Rep. 878.

6. A Letter of Introduction presented to a party with the intention that the party should believe and act upon it as genuine, to his prejudice, has been held to be the subject of forgery. Re Abeel, 7 Ont. L. Rep. 327. See also Com. v. Compton, 11 Pa. Dist. 119.

What Not Negligence Per Se. — In Robb v. Pennsylvania Ins. Co., 186 Pa. St. 456, 65 Am. St. Rep. 868, it was held that it was not negligence per se for a depositor to have possession, without notice to a bank, of a rubber stamp which would make a facsimile of his signature, and with which an employee forged a check, where the depositor had taken the proper precautions in the way of his custody of such stamp to prevent an unlawful appropriation or use of it.

1128. VII. PUNISHMENT. — See note 2.

1124. 4. Living Together in Fornication. — The Nebraska statute does not require that living in a state of fornication be open and notorious, in order to constitute the offense. Musfelt v. State, 64 Neb. 445.

6. Admissibility of Evidence — Acts and Conduct of Defendants. — Musfelt v. State, 64 Neb. 445.

1125. 1. Character of the Woman. — It is error to allow the prosecution to introduce evidence of the woman's previous chaste character, where the statute does not make that an element of the offense. Boatright v. State, 42 Tex. Crim. 442.

1127. 3. The Previous Chaste Character of the complaining witness may be sufficiently established by her own uncorroborated testimony to sustain a conviction under Stat. Wis. (1898), § 4580, as amended by Laws Wis. 1899, c. 99, making it a felony to commit fornication with a sane female of previous chaste character under the age of eighteen years. State v. Seiler, 106 Wis. 346, 112 Wis. 293.

7. Under Particular Statutes. — In Georgia the prosecution must establish that both parties to the act were unmarried. Neil v. State, 117 Ga. 14.

1128. 2. Punishment. — Under Rev. Stat. Wis. (1898), § 4580, as amended by Laws Wis. 1899, c. 99, fornication with a sane female over fourteen years of age is a misdemeanor, while fornication with a sane female "of previous chaste character" under the age of eighteen years is made a felony. This statute is not invalid as putting it within the discretion of the district attorney to say under which clause the offending party shall be prosecuted. State v. Seiler, 106 Wis. 346.

Conveyance of Excessive Amount of Property. —

When a creditor knows, or is charged with knowledge, of the insolvency of his debtor, and he takes in payment of his claim more property than is reasonably sufficient to satisfy it, the transaction is void as to creditors. Thompson v. Rosenstein, (Tex. Civ. App. 1902) 67 S. W. Rep. 440. See also Bauer Grocer Co. v. McKee Shoe Co., 87 Ill. App. 434.

Effect of Statutes. — The Louisiana code does not recognize "preferred" creditors. Marx v. Meyer, 50 La. Ann. 1229.

In Oklahoma it is expressly provided by statute that "a debtor may pay one creditor in preference to another, or may give to one creditor security in payment of his demand, in preference to another." Brittain v. Burnham, 9 Okla. 522.

In Payment of Contemplated Services. — A failing debtor may pass over his creditors and make a payment for services to be subsequently rendered, provided he acts bona fide. Farmers', etc., Nat. Bank v. Mosher, 63 Neb. 130.

Preferred Creditor's Claim Not Due. — The law does not forbid a debtor to pay and a creditor to receive a debt before it is due, provided the creditor's purpose is to receive his own debt, and not to defeat or delay another's. McElwee v. Kennedy, 56 S. Car. 171.

Delegation of Power to Prefer Creditors. —

While an insolvent debtor may lawfully prefer one creditor to another, he has no right to delegate that power to a third person. Hargadine-McKittrick Dry Goods Co. v. Carnahan, 79 Mo. App. 219.

Assignment of Claims Due to Debtor. — A failing debtor may prefer a creditor by assigning to him claims due from third persons. Ruthven v. Clarke, 109 Iowa 25; Fradd v. Charon, 69 N. H. 180.

"When a creditor is seeking payment or security for his debt from an insolvent debtor, it is commonly to his interest to act with celerity and secretly. If he made open proclamation of his intended action, it would probably result in some other creditor obtaining the preference." Foster v. McAlester, (C. C. A.) 114 Fed. Rep. 154.

Shares Owned by the Debtor may be turned over to a preferred creditor as security for the debt. Scripps v. Crawford, 123 Mich. 173.

Accepting Property in Excess of Debt. — It is legal for a creditor to accept from his debtor any amount of property in excess of his debt when he takes it merely as security. In that event, however, he is entitled only to the payment of his debt, and the balance is available for other creditors. Hollis v. Drescher, 46 N. Y. App. Div. 151.

Judgment Confessed in Favor of Brother. —

To secure a bona fide debt a debtor has the right, though in failing circumstances, to prefer his brother by a confession of judgment, so far as the statute of Elizabeth or the common law is concerned, provided he does not thereby intend also to delay or defraud his other creditors, or does not thereby, as the price of the preference, secure to himself a direct advantage at the expense of his creditors. Sloan v. Hunter, 56 S. Car. 385, 76 Am. St. Rep. 551.

Judgment Confessed in Favor of Wife. — A judgment honestly confessed to a wife by an insolvent husband on account of money loaned by the wife is good against creditors, though there was no agreement for interest on the money advanced, and such interest was included in the judgment. Hawley v. Griffith, 187 Pa. St. 306.

Delay in Recording. — A delay by the creditor in recording the confessed judgment does not in itself render the judgment invalid as to other creditors of the judgment debtor. Robinson v. Hawley, 45 N. Y. App. Div. 287. See also infra, this title, 526. 1.

Nor will a parol agreement, made at the time of assignment of property for the payment of debts, that the residue of the proceeds after payment of the debt shall be returned to the assignor, of itself render the transfer fraudulent, so long as the property transferred bears a reasonable proportion to the debt provided for. *In re A. right to have the conveyance set aside. O'Kane v. Vinnedge, 108 Ky. 34.

Evidence of Intent. — In Stratton v. Edwards, 174 Mass. 374, the court said: "It must appear that the conveyances were made with 'an intent on the part of the grantor to contract debts, and a design to avoid payment of such debts by the conveyance of his property;' and to establish such an intent it is not enough to show that the grantor had a general purpose to secure the property from the hazards of future business and the claims of future creditors, but it must appear that at the time of the conveyance he had an actual intent to contract debts, and a purpose to avoid the payment of them by the conveyance."

Subsequent creditors, in order to impeach a conveyance of their debtor on the ground that it was made to hinder, delay, or defraud them, must show the existence of an intention to accomplish that purpose, but such intention need not be proven as an independent fact. It is to be gathered from the deed itself, and from the acts of the parties and the surrounding circumstances. The law conclusively presumes every man to intend the necessary and even the probable consequences of an act deliberately done. Baltimore High Grade Brick Co. v. Amos, 95 Md. 597.

Where one has fraudulently contracted debts which he cannot pay, and then makes a voluntary conveyance of his property, and thereafter contracts other debts which he cannot pay, the reasonable inference is that he intended by his voluntary conveyance to hinder and delay his subsequent as well as his existing creditors. Bracken v. Milner, 99 Mo. App. 187.

When a transaction is attacked by a subsequent creditor upon the ground of actual fraud, the fact that the transfer or conveyance is not upon a consideration deemed valuable in law may be treated as evidence of the fraud. Miller v. Gillispie, 54 W. Va. 450.

Homestead Descending to Children. — The legal title to a homestead descends, on the death of the owner intestate, to his widow and children, and gives to such children a valuable interest, which they cannot convey in fraud of creditors. Hollinger v. Boatmen's Bank, 69 Kan. 519.

The Conveyance of Any Surplus Above What the Grantor Is Entitled to as a Homestead Right may be set aside if fraudulent. Brown v. Campbell, (Neb. 1903) 93 N. W. Rep. 1007.

Conveyance of Equitable Title to Homestead. — Though a debtor has only the equitable title to his homestead, the legal title being held by his vendor to secure a lien for the purchase price, his voluntary conveyance of such title to his wife cannot be fraudulent as to his creditors. Keith v. Albrecht, 89 Minn. 247, 99 Am. St. Rep. 566.

A Conveyance of Land Which Has Been Abandoned as a Homestead may be set aside if fraudulent. Brown v. Moore, (Tex. Civ. App. 1901) 64 S. W. Rep. 781.

Necessity of Recording Conveyance. — In Kentucky it is held that a conveyance of a homestead is not void as to creditors of the grantor, though the deed of conveyance has not been recorded, notwithstanding deeds generally are required by statute to be recorded in order to be valid as to creditors of the grantor. Kuhn v. Kuhn, (Ky. 1902) 69 S. W. Rep. 1077.

The Burden of Proof is on the creditor to show that property conveyed had ceased to be homestead property. Greenwood First Nat. Bank v. Reece, 64 Neb. 292.

A Conveyance of Land Purchased with Proceeds from the Sale of a Homestead, though made directly to the debtor's wife, cannot be set aside

The Reconveyance Is Not a Voluntary Conveyance within the meaning of a statute making voluntary conveyances invalid as to creditors. Farmers' Bank v. Gould, 48 W. Va. 99, 86 Am. St. Rep. 24.

260. 2. A Wife's Right of Dower is susceptible of fraudulent alienation. Tenbrook v. Jessup, 60 N. J. Eq. 234.

4. An Assignment of Wages to Be Earned is not fraudulent as to creditors if the assignor is indebted to the assignee and the only purpose of the assignment is to pay the assignee's debt, and not to create in addition a secret trust in the assignee for the benefit of the assignor. Dow v. Taylor, 71 Vt. 337, 76 Am. St. Rep. 775.

In Lennon v. Parker, 22 R. I. 43, the court said: "That a debtor has the right to make an assignment of his wages to secure the payment of some one of his creditors in preference to others is doubtless true, so far as the law of this state is concerned, outside of the insolvency law, which is now held in abeyance by the na-

Assignment of Policy to Wife. — By statute in Kentucky an assignment of an insurance policy to a wife or for her benefit cannot be held to be fraudulent as to creditors of the husband, except as to premiums paid when the husband was insolvent. Morehead v. Mayfield, 109 Ky. 51.

In Missouri the assignment is not void as to creditors of a husband unless the premiums in any year exceed five hundred dollars. Judson v. Walker, 155 Mo. 182.

261. 2. Wife Entitled to Her Own Earnings. — When the wife purchases a home with her own means and on her own account, and, with the consent of her husband, keeps boarders therein as a means of earning money for herself, and not for her husband, her earnings are her property, and are not subject to her husband's debts. *Furth v. St. Rep. 382, enumerating certain exceptions to the second rule laid down, where the conveyance in question was made with actual intent to affect subsequent creditors.

The Persons in Whose Favor the Rule Is to Be Invoked are those who have become creditors through the operation of a scheme concocted by the debtor to put his property out of his hands with the view of presently obtaining credit. Where a conveyance is made for the purpose of hindering a single creditor, who is afterwards paid in full, and there were no other concurrent creditors who might have been hindered or delayed, and there was no immediate intention of engaging in hazardous business and becoming indebted, one who becomes a creditor years afterwards cannot set up the old fraud in avoidance of the conveyance. Gray v. Folwell, 57 N. J. Eq. 446.

268. 4. Secret Trust Avoids Deed as to Subsequent Creditors. — Spuck v. Logan, 97 Md. 158, 99 Am. St. Rep. 427, citing 14 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 268; Bowlus v. Shanabarger, 10 Ohio Cir. Dec. 167.

In Nebraska it is expressly provided by statute that "all deeds of gift, all conveyances, and all transfers or assignments, verbal or written, of goods, chattels, or things in action, made in trust for the use of the person making the same, shall be void as against the creditors, existing or subsequent, of such person." Racek v. North Bend First Nat. Bank, 62 Neb. 669. See also Graham v. Townsend, 62 Neb. 364. In this case the court said: "The theory of the statute seems to be that property held in trust is to be regarded, so far as creditors are concerned, as the property of the beneficial owner. Whether a transfer of property is the result of an honest or corrupt motive is not, under section 7, [Comp. Stat. Neb. (1899), c. 32] of the least importance."

That the Subsequent Creditor Has Notice of the Trust is immaterial. Scott v. Keane, 87 Md. 709.

Illegal Contemporaneous Agreement. — "The rule that a deed valid in its inception will not be rendered invalid by any subsequent fraudulent or illegal act of the parties has no application when the fraudulent or illegal act is the consummation of an illegal agreement made contemporaneously with the deed. In such case the illegal act is part of the original design, and the deed is void ab initio." Parkersburg First Nat. Bank v. Prager, 50 W. Va. 660.

Fraud Can Have No Retroactive Effect on prior transactions. Krueger v. Vorhauer, 164 Mo. 156.

Evidence. — Though fraud must be proved to be in the inception of the matter, the subsequent conduct of the parties is evidence going to explain the motives which controlled the actions in the beginning, and give point to the original purpose. Messick v. Fries, 128 N. Car. 450.

Facts Sufficient to Excite Suspicion. — Suspicion of fraud is not alone sufficient to establish it, nor sufficient to impart notice of it; hence an instruction to the effect that if the plaintiffs had knowledge of "facts sufficient to excite the suspicions of a prudent man, or to lead a person of ordinary perception to suspect fraud," it would amount to actual notice thereof, is improper. *Urdangen v. Not Every Suspicion of Fraud Is Equivalent to Notice. — But the facts within the knowledge of the purchaser must be of such a nature as in reason will put him upon inquiry and excite the suspicions of an ordinarily prudent person, and he is then chargeable with a knowledge of such facts as would have been gained by a diligent inquiry. Vickers v. Buck Stove, etc., Co., 60 Kan. 598.

Question Is for Jury. — "It is not enough to invalidate a sale of chattels by an insolvent that the purchaser knew of the facts and circumstances from which he might have inferred a fraudulent purpose on the part of the seller. Such facts and circumstances are evidentiary, and the jury are entitled to consider them in determining whether or not the purchaser was aware of the fraudulent intent of his vendor; but the jury should not be told that they necessarily imply participation on the part of the purchaser in the mal-intent of the seller. They should be left free to draw their own deductions as to the effect of facts and circumstances which would ordinarily put the buyer upon inquiry as to the motives of his seller." Hearn v. Due, 79 Mo. App. 324.

291. 1. Knowledge of Vendor's Embarrassment or Insolvency. — Parmenter v. Lomax, 68 Kan. 61; Kelly-Goodfellow Shoe Co. v. Vail, 84

Montague*, 121 Ala. 287, where the court said: "A conveyance by an insolvent or failing debtor for a present cash consideration from the grantee, with knowledge on the part of such grantee of such insolvent or failing condition of the grantor, under the law, renders the conveyance, as to existing creditors of such grantor, fraudulent and void."

The Insolvency of a Vendor Is a Circumstance to Be Considered in determining whether fraud exists; but it cannot be declared, as a matter of law, that insolvency alone is sufficient to establish fraud. Vickers v. Buck Stove, etc., Co., 60 Kan. 598. See also Missinskie v. McMurdo, 107 Wis. 578, wherein the court said: "Knowledge of the financial condition of the person from whom one purchases is not knowledge of the fraudulent intent, though it may be evidence, more or less cogent, from which knowledge of that intent may be inferred, or a duty to investigate arise, so that knowledge will be imputed in case of failure to so investigate."

App. 654, holding that the purchaser will not acquire a valid title if, after the sale, but before payment of the price, he learned of the fraud and failed to withhold payment, "provided his obligation to pay had not become so fixed by a transfer of negotiable paper evidencing it, or otherwise, that he could not legally resist its enforcement."

But an owner of real estate can make a voluntary settlement thereof upon his wife and children without any consideration, provided he has ample property left to satisfy all the just claims of his creditors. If the grantor remains solvent after the conveyance and has sufficient property left to satisfy all his just debts, then the conveyance, whatever his intention was, cannot be a fraud upon his existing creditors. But the person assailing the deed assumes the burden of showing that it was executed in bad faith, and that it left the grantor insolvent and without ample property to pay his existing debts and liabilities. "Whether the property reserved by a man making a voluntary conveyance will be deemed ample does not depend entirely on the amount and value of it; hence the nature and situation of the property, as well as its amount and value, are important, and to be considered. The property must be so circumstanced that neither delay, difficulty, nor expense need be encountered before it can be made valuable for creditors. The property reserved by the donor should not only be ample, but it should be accessible, so that it may be conveniently subjected and applied by creditors. This rule is obviously just, because the creditors are not only entitled to protection for their debts, but that their means for collecting them shall not be hindered and delayed. The conveyance, as well as the security of the creditors, is the object of the law's protection." Carpenter v. Scales, (Tenn. Ch. 1897) 48 S. W. Rep. 253.

The Revised Statutes of Kentucky. — In Townsend v. Wilson, 114 Ky. 504, the court said: "While there is some conflict in the authorities, the rule in this state has been from the beginning that, if a party be indebted at the time of a voluntary conveyance, it is presumed to be fraudulent as to his existing debts, regardless of the amount of the debts, the intentions or circumstances of the party conveying, or the amount of property conveyed. This rule has been crystallized in our present statute, which provides: 'Every gift, conveyance, assignment, transfer, or charge made by a debtor or upon any of his estate, without valuable consideration therefor, shall be void as to all his then existing liabilities.' Ky. Stat., § 1907. As to existing liabilities, by the express terms of the statute every voluntary conveyance by a debtor of any of his estate is void. The purpose of the statute is to place the property of the debtor which is thus conveyed away in precisely the same situation as to his existing debts as if the conveyance had not been made. As to these debts, and as against the original grantee, the conveyance is a nullity." See also O'Kane v.

Vinnedge, 108 Ky. 34; Hamilton v. Combs, (Ky. 1901) 60 S. W. Rep. 371.

In Virginia the statute provides that "every gift, conveyance, assignment, transfer, or charge which is not upon a consideration deemed valuable in law * * * shall be void as to creditors whose debts shall have been contracted at the time it was made." Davis v. Anderson, 99 Va. 622.

Question of Insolvency Determined as of Time of Conveyance. — State v. Martin, 77 Conn. 142.

Inference of Intent. — In North Carolina, by statute, voluntary conveyances are protected when the donor retains property sufficient and available for the satisfaction of his existing debts, but the indebtedness of the donor is declared to be evidence from which an intent to defraud may be inferred. Cox v. Wall, 132 N. Car. 730.

307. 1. Value of Property Retained at Time of Conveyance the Test. — Where one made a voluntary deed and some time thereafter died, the value of his other property at the time when the deed was made is the true test of his solvency at that time, and not the value of his property at the time of his death as estimated by appraisers appointed to set aside a year's support for his widow and minor children. Ayers v. Harrell, 111 Ga. 864.

Indorsements on Obligations of Others. — As a general rule, in testing the solvency of one who has made a voluntary conveyance of property, his indorsements or suretyship on the obligations of others, not matured at the time of the conveyance, should not be counted as his debts, where it does not appear that his contingent liability was at that time likely to become absolute, or that it afterwards in fact became so. Where, therefore, one made such a conveyance to his wife and was at the time surety for another, and the obligation was thereafter paid by the principal, such a debt should not be counted against the surety, in an attack on the wife's deed, on the ground that the husband was insolvent when he made it. Ayers v. Harrell, 111 Ga. 864.

Search for Property Outside Jurisdiction of Court. — A creditor, before he is permitted to attack a conveyance which he conceives to be fraudulent, is not obliged to search the entire world for unencumbered property out of which to make his debt. It is sufficient if he finds none within the jurisdiction of the court in which he seeks to set aside the fraudulent conveyance. Rohrer v. Snyder, 29 Wash. 199.

Foundation of Rule. — In Nebraska Nat. Bank v. Hallowell, 63 Neb. 309, the court said: "The rule seems to be founded in reason that in a judgment creditor's bill to set aside a fraudulent conveyance the return of the sheriff to the execution upon the judgment nulla bona is conclusive of the fact that the creditor has exhausted his legal remedies. It would be of no avail to ask him to do more than this."

In Kentucky a statutory provision requiring the return of an execution nulla bona before the institution of a suit in equity by creditors to subject property of a debtor fraudulently conveyed to the satisfaction of their judgments has been repealed. O'Kane v. Vinnedge, 108 Ky. 34; Locheim v. Eversole, (Ky. 1902) 70 S. W. Rep. 661.

In Wisconsin the holder of a judgment which is not yet a lien, in order to set aside fraudulent conveyances, so that a lien may attach, must generally allege and show issue and unsatisfied return of an execution. But one having a specific lien, by judgment or otherwise, may maintain suit to remove fraudulent or invalid obstacles standing in the way of its enforcement without such preliminary. Level Land Co. No. 3 v. Sivyver, 112 Wis. 442. See also Mueller v. Bruss, 112 Wis. 406.

Return of Execution Unsatisfied Not Conclusive Evidence of Insolvency. — In an action to set aside a fraudulent conveyance, a judgment and a return of execution thereon unsatisfied is strong but not conclusive evidence of insolvency. Mauney v. Hamilton, 132 N. Car. 295.

Rep. 680; Deering v. Holcomb, 26 Wash. 588.

Modification of Rule. — In Blackwell v. Hatch, 13 Okla. 171, the court said: "It is a common expression that the statute of limitation runs from the discovery of the fraud, and this is the general rule. But, like all general rules, it has its exceptions. For instance, suppose that A holds a note against B, which will mature in four years, and B fraudulently conveys all of his property to a third person, to defraud A. The statute will not run against A before the maturity of his note, because he would not be entitled to judgment in a court of law before that time; and a creditor's bill cannot be maintained until after judgment is recovered on the debt in a court of law, and an execution returned, 'No property found.' Counsel for appellant assume that the statute begins to run as soon as the fraudulent act is committed. This is not always true, as before stated. At any rate, the commission or even the discovery of the fraud does not start the statute to running, unless under the conditions then existing a creditor's cause of action accrues."

Reduction of Claim to Judgment. — Under the Nebraska statute the fact that the creditor's claim has not been reduced to judgment does not prevent the statute of limitation from beginning to run upon the discovery of the fraud. State Bank v. Frey, (Neb. 1902) 91 N. W. Rep. 239.

But under the Montana statute prescribing a limitation of two years and providing that the cause of action is not to be deemed to have accrued until the discovery by the aggrieved party of the facts constituting fraud or mistake, it is held that the cause of action does not arise until, at the least, the creditor has obtained judgment against the debtor. Finch v. Kent, 24 Mont. 268.

In Ohio a statute provides that suits brought on account of fraud shall be commenced within four years from its discovery. Boies v. Johnson, 25 Ohio Cir. Ct. 321. This is held to apply to suits to set aside deeds for constructive as well as for actual fraud. Stevens v. Summers, 68 Ohio St. 421.

St. Rep. 798, where the court said: "If the debtor failed to turn over or to deliver up to the trustee, in pursuance of the terms of the deed, any property of any kind, except that embraced in the exemption in favor of poor debtors, that fact would not invalidate the deed of assignment. The title to all the property was absolutely vested in the trustee by the conveyance, with the right to take immediate possession thereof for the purposes of the deed, and he could recover from the debtor or other person any that might be withheld from him."

"When a conveyance in favor of a relative leaves a man without means to satisfy his creditors, it is the basis of a strong suspicion of fraud; it is prima facie fraudulent, and calls upon the grantee to furnish strong proof of bona fides of the transaction. If a conveyance provides for near relatives at the expense of creditors, the relatives must assume the burden of proof, and make things clear." Stauffer v. Kennedy, 47 W. Va. 714.

Contra. — In Minnesota it is held that from the mere relationship of the parties other than husband and wife and the insolvency of the one making the sale, no presumption of fraud arises. In the case of husband and wife, however, a presumption of fraud arises. Shea v. Hynes, 89 Minn. 423; Heim v. Heim, 90 Minn. 499.

But in Connecticut there is no presumption of law that a deed from husband to wife was without consideration. Fishel v. Motta, 76 Conn. 197.

In Kentucky it is held that the Act of 1894 as to married women and their property does not change the rule putting upon the wife the burden of showing that a conveyance from her husband was not voluntary. Sikking v. Fromm, 112 Ky. 773.

2. Conveyance Between Relatives — Showing Consideration. — Leonhard v. Flood, 68 Ark. 162; Lusk v. Riggs, (Neb. 1904) 97 N. W. Rep. 1033; Colfax Bank v. Richardson, 34 Oregon 519, 75 Am. St. Rep. 664. See also Citizens' State Bank v. Porter, (Neb. 1903) 93 N. W. Rep. 391.

Showing Items of Consideration. — In Walker v. Harold, 44 Oregon 205, the court said: "In a suit by a creditor to set aside a deed executed by an insolvent debtor to his relative, the burden of proof is imposed upon the grantee to show that he is an innocent purchaser for a valuable consideration, and, when the purchase price consists of an antecedent debt, money paid, or property exchanged, it is also incumbent upon him definitely to point out the various items constituting the alleged consideration, where the conveyance and the circumstances under which it was made bear the semblance of an attempt to cover up the property of the debtor."

One Who Claims under a Sale Made to Him by His Father, who was in insolvent circumstances, must, if the sale be attacked for simulation, show that the sale was a bona fide transaction. Pruyn v. Young, 51 La. Ann. 320.

Deed Between Brothers Naming Nominal Consideration. — In Bokel, etc., Co. v. Costello, 22 App. Cas. (D. C.) 81, where only a nominal consideration was named in a deed from an insolvent debtor to his brother, it was held that there was a prima facie presumption that the deed was voluntary.

Inference of Law. — "It is ordinarily a question of fact whether a conveyance was made with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors. But in considering such cases the principle is applied that one is presumed to intend the natural consequences of his act. If the known conditions are such that the effect of the act will be to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors, the inference follows as matter of law, unless there is something else to control it." Matthews v. Thompson, 186 Mass. 20.

A Husband May Testify that a conveyance to his wife was not made with intent to defraud creditors. Finch v. Kent, 24 Mont. 268.

When Vendor's Testimony Not Received. — In Curran v. Rothschild, 14 Colo. App. 497, it was held that the vendor's testimony as to his purpose in the transaction should not be received if the intent appears upon the face of the transaction or if the undisputed facts are irreconcilable with a lawful purpose.

494. 1. Vendee May Testify. — Brown v. Potter, 13 Colo. App. 512.

Presumption from Vendee's Failure to Testify. — In Dawson v. Waltemeyer, 91 Md. 333, the court said: "When in a case like this, a fraud is proven and suspicious circumstances are shown which implicate a grantee, and those circumstances are peculiarly within his knowledge, we cannot but draw unfavorable presumptions of fact if he fails to offer some affirmative proof that his part in the transaction is an honest one. If he has acted honestly he should not permit his conduct to wear a doubtful aspect, when by making a statement he can clear up the whole matter. As was said by the court in Connecticut Mut. L. Ins. Co. v. Smith, 117 Mo. 261, 38 Am. St. Rep. 656, 'his failure to appear and testify in denial of a charge of something peculiarly within his own knowledge, carries with it the usual unfavorable and damaging presumption.' Rule and Exceptions Summarized. — In Moore v. Robinson, (Tex. Civ. App. 1903) 75 S. W. Rep. 892, the court said: "The general rule is well settled that the declarations of a grantor, after his sale, cannot be received to impeach his conveyance. There are exceptions to the rule, however, which are universally recognized: (1) Where there has been a prima facie case of fraud established, as where the thing granted has a corpus, and the possession of the thing after the sale remains with the seller; (2) where the declarations are made in the presence of the vendee, and he acquiesces in the statements, or asserts no rights where he ought to speak; and (3) where the evidence establishes a continuing conspiracy to defraud between the vendor and vendee."

Where the Testimony Shows a Prior Dishonest Combination between the parties to a conveyance, the declarations and admissions of the vendor, made after the execution of the deed, are admissible against the vendee to prove a fraudulent intent. Walker v. Harold, 44 Oregon 205.

Admissions Prior to Payment of Consideration. — Admissions of the vendor in the presence of the vendee, before the latter parted with the consideration, as to the intent with which the sale was made, are competent, though coming after the vendee had taken possession, since they tend to show notice of the vendor's intent to the vendee. Bender v. Kingman, 62 Neb. 469.

Code Cal., § 3442, that the question of fraudulent intent is one of fact, and not of law, is subordinate to the rule that a finding of fact must be supported by the testimony in the case. Walters v. Rossi, 126 Cal. 644.

In Foster v. McAlester, (C. C. A.) 114 Fed. Rep. 153, the court said: "Mere suspicion, unsupported by evidence, cannot be allowed to deprive a creditor of his legal rights; and fraud cannot be inferred either by the court or jury from acts, legal in themselves, and consistent with an honest purpose. The settled rule on this subject is that slight circumstances, or circumstances of an equivocal tendency, or circumstances of mere suspicion, leading to no certain results, are not sufficient to establish fraud. They must not be when taken together and aggregated — when interlinked and put in proper relation to each other — consistent with an honest intent. If they are, the proof of fraud is wanting."

An agreement that the mortgagors may remain in possession and continue the sale of the mortgaged stock of merchandise, and apply to their own benefit an indefinite portion thereof, renders the mortgage fraudulent as to other creditors, and void in law. Franzke v. Hitchon, 105 Wis. 11.

Mortgagor Required to Account for Proceeds. — But a mortgage of a stock of goods is not rendered fraudulent by the fact that the mortgagor is to remain in possession and sell in the usual course of trade, if he is required to account to the mortgagee of the proceeds of his sales, to be applied to the mortgage debt. Gee v. Van Natta-Lynds Drug Co., 105 Mo. App. 27; Dunham v. Stevens, 160 Mo. 95; State v. Fidelity, etc., Co., 94 Mo. App. 184.

So in Red River Valley Nat. Bank v. Barnes, 8 N. Dak. 432, it was held that a chattel mortgage on a stock of merchandise which provides in terms that the mortgagor shall remain in possession, and sell the mortgaged property at retail for cash only, and also requires the mortgagor to keep accurate accounts of such sales, and turn over all the proceeds thereof daily to the creditor, to be applied by him on the mortgage debt, is not fraudulent in law.

But in Nelden-Judson Drug Co. v. Commercial Nat. Bank, 27 Utah 59, the court said: "While an agreement, expressed upon the face of a chattel mortgage, that the mortgagor may remain in possession of the goods, and sell the same in payment of the debt, does not, under our statute, per se render the mortgage fraudulent and void, still, if a given state of facts abunde show conduct of the parties and results quite inconsistent with fairness and honesty as to other creditors of the mortgagor, the mortgage will be held to be fraudulent in fact and void."

When Intent Immaterial. — In Bunch v. Schaer, 66 Ark. 98, the court said: "It is a rule of law based on the soundest of reasons that a vendee who by an agreement or understanding with his vendor withholds from record and keeps secret his deed of conveyance to valuable property, and allows the vendor to hold himself out as the owner of such property cannot, if the vendor becomes insolvent, set up his title to such property as against one who has in good faith parted with his goods and credited such vendor in the belief that he still owns such property. As between the vendee and creditor, in such a case, the vendor will still be considered the owner of the property; for to allow the vendee to hold the property under such circumstances would be to permit him and the vendor to perpetrate a gross fraud upon the creditor. Under such circumstances the deed will be treated as fraudulent and void as to the creditor, without regard to whether the parties to the deed intended any fraud or not."

GAME AND GAME LAWS.

By J. HAVILAND SMITH.

654. I. DEFINITION OF GAME — 1. In General. — See note 1.

655. II. PROPERTY IN GAME — 1. In General. — See note 1.

656. 2. As Between Individuals. — See note 1.

III. TRESPASS IN PURSUIT OF GAME. — See note 4.

657. Form of Action. — See note 3.

IV. DECOYING AND ENTICING AWAY GAME. — See note 4.

658. V. DEFINITION AND FOUNDATION OF GAME LAWS. — See note 3.

654. 1. "Game" Defined. — Meul v. People, 108 Ill. 258.

655. 1. United States — Extent of Government Ownership. — State v. Mallory, 73 Ark. 236. See also Smith v. State, 155 Ind. 611.

"With us, landholders can keep others from hunting on their land, not by virtue of their ownership of the game, but from their right to keep trespassers off the land." State v. Gallop, 126 N. Car. 979.

656. 1. Rights as Between Owner of Land and Public. — The owner of land, in dedicating a highway over it, does not part with his exclusive right to game on the portion of the premises covered by the highway, and he may, therefore, enjoin persons from shooting birds in their passage across such highway. L. Realty Co. v. Johnson, 92 Minn. 363.

Injunction. — Under a statute forbidding the establishment of a blind nearer than three hundred yards from one already licensed, a person who has obtained a license but has not yet located his blind has no right to an injunction to restrain the establishment of another blind. Bannon v. Shekell, 94 Md. 738.

4. Trespass — What Constitutes. — The Vermont constitution gives the inhabitants of the state the right to hunt on uninclosed land. Payne v. Gould, 74 Vt. 208.

Firing upon Land of Adjacent Owner. — Horn v. Raine, 78 L. T. N. S. 654, 67 L. J. Q. B. 533, 19 Cox C. C. 119.

Trespass — Who May Maintain — Owner of Shooting Privileges. — Payne v. Sheets, 75 Vt. 335.

657. 3. Criminal Prosecution. — Davis v. State, 45 Tex. Crim. 183.

Evidence Sufficient for Conviction. — An intention to kill game need not be shown. Stiff v. Billington, 84 L. T. N. S. 467, 19 Cox C. C. 680.

4. Interference with Shooting. — In State v. Gallop, 126 N. Car. 979, it was held that the legislature had power to forbid any one interfering with "any citizen who may be gunning or fishing in Currituck Sound or its tributaries, for the purpose of keeping them from shooting."

658. 3. Preservation of Game. — Cummings v. People, 211 Ill. 392; State v. Ward, 75 Vt. 438.

Arkansas — Camp-hunting and Fire-hunting. — In Arkansas, Act Feb. 11, 1897, p. 26, makes it unlawful to engage in what is commonly known as camp-hunting and fire-hunting. Du Bose v. State, 71 Ark. 347.

Guides. — The legislature has the constitutional power to regulate the employment of guides in fishing and hunting so as to assure the better preservation of game. State v. Snowman, 94 Me. 90, 80 Am. St. Rep. 380.

Use of Repeating or Magazine Guns. — In In re Marshall, 102 Fed. Rep. 323, it was held that a provision against killing certain birds with a repeating shotgun or any kind of a magazine gun was unconstitutional, as it destroyed the property right in such a gun.

710. 5. Construction of Statutes — Ejusdem Generis. — Com. v. Schatzman, (Ky. 1904) 82 S. W. Rep. 238.

A chuck-a-luck table and a crap table are within Rev. Stat. Mo. (1899), § 2194, punishing the keeping, etc., of "any table or gambling device commonly called A B C, faro bank, E O, roulette, equality, keno, or any kind of gambling table or gambling device, adapted, devised, and designed for the purpose of playing any game of chance for money or property." State v. Rosenblatt, 185 Mo. 114. See also State v. Lockett, 188 Mo. 415. A poker table, however, is not within the prohibition of the above statute. State v. Etchman, 184 Mo. 193.

711. 5. Exhibiting Gaming Table, Bank, or Other Device. — The dealer and manager of a gaming table is guilty of exhibiting it though he also participates in the game. Coffee v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1905) 87 S. W. Rep. 820.

But one who participates in a game of craps on equal terms with the other players is not guilty as the keeper and exhibitor of a gaming table merely because he is the owner of the table on which the game is played, but is merely guilty of violating the gaming statute. Coleman v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1905) 87 S. W. Rep. 152.

4. Statutory Offenses. — Dalton v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1903) 74 S. W. Rep. 25.

5. Deduction for Refreshments. — A room resorted to for the purpose of playing the game of poker is not shown to be kept for gaming under the Canada Criminal Code, § 196 (a), by the mere proof that the proprietor, who participated in the game on equal terms with the others, was allowed by consent of the players, and not as a matter of right, nor as a condition on which the playing took place, to take small sums from the stakes on several occasions by way of reimbursement for refreshments provided by him to the players, where such sums are not shown to exceed the cost or value of the refreshments. Reg. v. Saunders, 3 Can. Crim. Cas. (Ont.) 495.

10. Statutory Offenses. — Hart v. M'Creadie, Sc. Ct. of Just. 2 F. 1; Brogden v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 80 S. W. Rep. 378; Carroll v. State, (Tex. Crim. 1904) 81 S. W. Rep. 294.

Imminence and Character of Peril. — See note 2.

960. *d. NECESSITY OF ACT — Master Judge of Necessity of Act. — See note 2.

961. Negligence. — See note 2.

962. *e. EXTRAORDINARY NATURE OF ACT. — See note 1.

963. 3. Where Article the Sacrifice of Which Is Claimed Was Inevitably Doomed — Property Threatening Adventure Through Its Own Defect. — See note 1.

IV. GENERAL AVERAGE LOSS — 1. Definition and Nature of General Average Loss — a. IN GENERAL. — See note 3.

966. *c. INCIDENTAL LOSSES — Immediate Consequences of Act Are General Average. — See note 2.

Act Must Be Proximate Cause of Loss. — See note 3.

954. 1. The Phrase "General Average," as found in policies of marine insurance, is used in contradistinction to particular average. It means a voluntary sacrifice for the benefit of the voyage, and not merely an involuntary encounter of a loss without action or design. Montgomery v. Indemnity Mut. Marine Ins. Co., (1902) 1 K. B. 734.

955. 1. *Iredale v. China Traders Ins. Co., (1900) 2 Q. B. 515.

3. Antiquity and History. — See Milburn v. Jamaica Fruit Importing, etc., Co., (1900) 2 Q. B. 540.

957. 3. *Iredale v. China Traders Ins. Co., (1900) 2 Q. B. 515; Kidd v. Thomson, 26 Ont. App. 220.

958. 1. After the Common Danger Has Ceased there can be no sacrifice or expenditure that can be the subject of a general average contribution. Iredale v. China Traders Ins. Co., (1900) 2 Q. B. 515.

2. Imminence of Peril. — Kidd v. Thomson, 26 Ont. App. 220.

960. 2. Master Judge of Necessity. — Montgomery v. Indemnity Mut. Marine Ins. Co., (1901) 1 Q. B. 147, affirmed (1902) 1 K. B. 734.

961. 2. Where Master's Negligence Proximate Cause of Loss. — Milburn v. Jamaica Fruit Importing, etc., Co., (1900) 2 Q. B. 540.

Where Charter-party Exempts Servant's Negligence. — Milburn v. Jamaica Fruit Importing, etc., Co., (1900) 2 Q. B. 540.

Effect of Harter Act. — The Strathdon, 94 Fed.

Rep. 206, affirmed (C. C. A.) 101 Fed. Rep. 600.

962. 1. Act Must Be Extraordinary. — Kidd v. Thomson, 26 Ont. App. 220.

965. 1. Spontaneous Combustion or Superheating of Cargo. — See Iredale v. China Traders Ins. Co., (1899) 2 Q. B. 356, affirmed (1900) 2 Q. B. 515.

3. Depreciation in Value of Goods brought about by a general average act must be made good in general average. Anglo-Argentine Live Stock, etc., Agency v. Temperley Shipping Co., (1899) 2 Q. B. 493.

Also loss occasioned by the sale of a part of the cargo at an intermediate port because of its endangering the whole venture is to be made good in general average. The Brewster, 95 Fed. Rep. 1000.

966. 2. Immediate Consequences of Sacrifice Are General Average. — Norwich, etc., Transp. Co. v. Insurance Co. of North America, 118 Fed. Rep. 307, citing 14 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 966, affirmed (C. C. A.) 129 Fed. Rep. 1006.

The Damage Occasioned Need Not Be Foreseen; if it is incidental to the saving of the ship and cargo it is a general average loss. McCall v. Houlder, 76 L. T. N. S. 469.

3. Causa Proxima, Non Remota, Spectatur. — The doctrine of general average does not seem to be concluded by the primary cause of the loss, but is rather dependent on what occurred in the effort to save property. The sacrificial act which brings the doctrine into operation, and the success which ensues in the saving of property,

6. No Mention of Good Will in Conveyance. — Hutchinson v. Nay, 183 Mass. 355; Fite v. Dorman, (Tenn. 1900) 57 S. W. Rep. 129.

Purchase of Business by One Partner. — The general rule is that upon the dissolution of a firm, where one of the partners purchases and succeeds to the business, the purchaser acquires the good will of the firm, and this includes, as against the retiring partners, the exclusive right to use the name under which the firm did business. Steinfeld v. National Shirt Waist Co., 99 N. Y. App. Div. 286.

1090. 2. Vendor of Good Will May Resume Business. — Gillingham v. Beddow, (1900) 2 Ch. 242; Webster v. Webster, 180 Mass. 310; Hutchinson v. Nay, 187 Mass. 262, 105 Am. What Constitutes Engaging in Business. — A contract by the vendor not to engage in the same business, directly or indirectly, does not prevent him from accepting employment as an assistant or clerk to others engaged in the business mentioned in the contract. Battershell v. Bauer, 91 Ill. App. 181. Compare Corwin v. Hawkins, 42 N. Y. App. Div. 571.

Covenant Passes on Sale of Interest. — The benefit of a partner's covenant not to carry on a similar business to that of the partnership during a fixed period from the commencement thereof passes by an assignment of the good will of the partnership. Townsend v. Jarman, (1900) 2 Ch. 698.

Wife Not Enjoined from Carrying on Same Business Where Good Will Sold under Mortgage Given by Husband. — Vinall v. Hendricks, 33 Ind. App. 413.

In Massachusetts a person who sells the good will of his business cannot set up a competing business, if doing so would derogate from his grant. Hutchinson v. Nay, 183 Mass. 355, 187 Mass. 262, 105 Am. St. Rep. 390.

But where a sale of partnership assets is forced upon the survivor by the administrator of a deceased person, the survivor is not in the position of a sole trader who has voluntarily parted with the good will of his business. He is not bound to retire from the business, as a sole trader impliedly elects to do, by voluntarily selling his good will. Hutchinson v. Nay, 187 Mass. 262, 105 Am. St. Rep. 390.

Under the English Rule, one who has voluntarily sold the good will of his business can set up a competing business, but cannot also derogate from his grant. He cannot solicit business from the customers of the old firm. Hutchinson v. Nay, 187 Mass. 262, 105 Am. St. Rep. 390.

The rule that the vendor is not entitled to solicit his old customers applies in the case of a purchase of the business of a firm by one of the partners, even though the articles provide that the outgoing partner may set up a similar business in the neighborhood, as this provision is merely declaratory. Gillingham v. Beddow, (1900) 2 Ch. 242.

3. Personal Solicitation Sanctioned. — Vinall v. Hendricks, 33 Ind. App. 413.

4. English Rule Followed in Illinois. — See Ranft v. Reimers, 200 Ill. 386.

3. Validity of Sale. — Snider v. McKelvey, 27 Ont. App. 339; Slack v. Suddoth, 102 Tenn. 375.

Forced Sale. — There can be no forced sale or transfer in invitum of good will attaching to professional partnership, so far as it is based upon professional reputation and standing. Slack v. Suddoth, 102 Tenn. 375.

Amount Recoverable for Breach of Agreement. — In agreements for the sale of a business containing covenants against carrying on a similar business within certain limits, on the breach of which a certain sum is to be paid, this sum has frequently been held to be recoverable in full as being liquidated damages, on the principle that it was stipulated to be paid on the breach of a condition of uncertain value. Snider v. McKelvey, 27 Ont. App. 339.

6. Gospel. — Crawford v. Thomas, 114 Ky. 484. The word gospel in the Ohio statute designating the class who may solemnize marriages is used in its broad sense and means any minister of religion and is not confined to the Christian religion. Matter of Reinhart, 9 Ohio Dec. 441.

1094. 3. Government Bond. — New York L. Ins., etc., Co. v. Baker, 165 N. Y. 484.

GROUND RENTS.

BY BASIL JONES.

1121. I. SCOPE OF TITLE — DEFINITION — Pennsylvania. — See note 1.

II. THE ESTATE CONSIDERED — 1. As Real Estate — In Pennsylvania

— a. IN GENERAL. — See note 3.

1122. b. ESTATES OF GRANTOR AND GRANTEE. — See note 1.

III. CHARACTERISTICS — 2. Apportionment. — See note 7.

1121. 1. Pennsylvania Definition. — Wilson v. Iseminger, 185 U. S. 55.

3. Ground Rents Are Realty. — Wilson v. Iseminger, 185 U. S. 55.

Creation by Executory Agreement. — An executory contract to convey land upon ground rent, upon performance of a stipulated condition, leaves the whole legal title in the covenantor, and a ground rent may legally be reserved by proper covenants in the deed, executed in pursuance of the contract. Real Estate Title Ins., etc., Co. v. Hodges, 15 Pa. Super. Ct. 299.

Existence of Deed Creating Presumed. — Real Estate Title Ins., etc., Co. v. Hodges, 15 Pa. Super. Ct. 299.

Ohio Statute — Descent and Distribution. — A "ground rent," being an estate of inheritance in the rent of lands, is a freehold estate, and is a right to and interest in the lands within the meaning of section 4158, Ohio Rev. Stat. 1892, relating to descent and distribution. Where the owner of such ground rent dies intestate and without issue the right descends under the provisions of the sections of the Revised Statutes which control the descent of real estate, and is not within the purview of section 4163, which relates to personal property. McCammon v. Cooper, 69 Ohio St. 366.

What Constitutes Irredeemable Ground Rent. — See Norris v. Crowe, 206 Pa. St. 438, 98 Am. St. Rep. 783.

1122. 1. Fee-simple Estates. — See Wilson v. Iseminger, 185 U. S. 55.

Under Massachusetts Public Statutes, c. 121, § 1, which provides that when land is demised for a term of one hundred years or more, the term, so long as fifty years of it remain unexpired, shall be regarded as an estate in fee simple as to everything concerning its descent, a lease of term for one hundred years, without words of inheritance, reserving a certain rent, and giving a perpetual right of renewal at the choice of the tenants, does not give the lessee a fee, but merely gives to his interest a dignity and quality equal to life estate. The statute is not intended to destroy or impair any reversion of the lessor or to make it in any degree less an estate than it was before. Stark v. Mansfield, 178 Mass. 76.

4. Right of Redemption under Maryland Code of Pub. Gen. Laws, Art. 21, § 85. — Plaenker v. Smith, 95 Md. 389.

7. The Provision of the Pennsylvania Act of 1878 that the grantee of real estate which is subject to ground rent shall not be personally liable for the payment thereof, unless he shall, by an agreement in writing, have expressly assumed a personal liability therefor, or there shall be express words in the deed of conveyance stating that the grant is made on condition of the grantee assuming such personal liability, was intended to be prospective only; therefore it does not apply to grantees, after the date of the act, of real estate subject to ground rent reserved before the act. Sachse v. Myers, 15 Pa. Super. Ct. 426.

1125. 2. A Purchaser at a Sheriff's Sale takes land free from a lien for arrears of ground rent, and a subsequent judgment for the same against the covenantor acquires no lien on the property which will support a sheriff's sale and carry the title. Where, therefore, a purchaser at sheriff's sale pays or tenders payment of the principal and all arrearages that have accrued since his purchase, all liability so far as he or the land is concerned is extinguished. Sergeant v. Fleckenstein, 9 Pa. Super. Ct. 557.

7. Remedies — Set-off Not Allowed. — In an action to recover arrears of ground rent, a set-off based on unliquidated damages cannot be allowed. Connor v. Schildt, 16 Pa. Super. Ct. 88.

What Is Not a Guaranty. — The following words do not show that the parties intended them to be a guaranty, but are a mere expression of opinion: "We are very much interested in seeing that you get the goods, and from the position we occupy, we would say that the contract is good, and that we will look after the same both to your interest and for our own." Kenneweg Co. v. Finney, 98 Md. 114.

"He wishes to purchase a full line of groceries, and I recommend him to you. They are perfectly reliable, and will pay as soon as bills mature. Any favors conferred * * * will be appreciated by me." This was held not to be a guaranty. Crooks v. Propp, (Supm. Ct. Spec. T.) 32 Misc. (N. Y.) 309.

Exclusive Reliance on Guaranty Not Necessary. — McDonald v. Tootle-Weakley Millinery Co., 64 Neb. 577.

Indefinite Guaranty. — An indefinite guaranty will be cured of its invalidity by the guarantor's subsequently recognizing and ratifying it. Leis v. Sinclair, 67 Kan. 748.

1132. 7. Partnerships. — It is a well-settled general rule that one partner has no right without the assent or subsequent ratification of his copartners to bind the firm as guarantor of the debt of a third person. Lewin v. Barry, 15 Colo. App. 461; Kelley-Goodfellow Shoe Co. v. Long-Bell Lumber Co., 86 Mo. App. 438. Parol Evidence will not be admitted to show that this kind of guaranty is only for one year. Indiana Bicycle Co. v. Tuttle, 74 Conn. 489.

5. Guaranties Held Not Continuing. — A guaranty of "the value of a consignment stock * * * to the extent of one thousand dollars; said stock to be on memoranda for a period of no less than six months, and all reorders from said stock to be accompanied and paid for in cash," covers only a single consignment of goods, not exceeding one thousand dollars, and is not a continuous guaranty. Fogel v. Blitz, 128 Mich. 503, 8 Detroit Leg. N. 763.

An instrument of guaranty was in these words: "We hereby guarantee the account of * * * to the amount of two thousand five hundred dollars. It is agreed and understood that this guaranty is to cover all amounts which above firm may owe the said bank to the above specified amount." This was held to be confined to the account, as of its date, and not to be a continuing guaranty. Merchants, etc., Bank v. Calmes, 82 Miss. 603.

The following have been held guaranties of payment and absolute:

"Draft drawn by J. W. Hutchins on B. D. Chalkley & Co., for green salted hides * * *; amount not to exceed three hundred dollars will be paid." Hutchins v. Planters' Nat. Bank, 130 N. Car. 287, citing 14 AM. AND ENG. ENCYC. OF LAW (2d ed.) 1141; the court saying: "The guaranty here made was absolute, and the right of action accrued against the guarantor immediately upon default of the principal. It is not dependent upon any extraneous event, beyond the mere default by which the guaranty would have become binding."

"I guarantee payment of this note * * * until it is paid, and I agree to be liable and pay said note to him the same as if it was my note and I had signed it." Brown v. Wilcox, 73 Conn. 100.

"I * * * hereby guarantee the payment of said rent." Garland v. Gaines, 73 Conn. 662, 84 Am. St. Rep. 182.

A guaranty of payment of a loan. Pierce v. Merrill, 128 Cal. 464, 79 Am. St. Rep. 56.

Consent to Alteration of Contract. — The guarantor is not discharged by alteration in the contract if he consents to it. Pacific Press Pub. Co. v. Loofbourn, 129 Cal. 24.

Where repayment of money to be given to a certain corporation was guaranteed, but the money was paid to a creditor of the corporation with the assent of the guarantors, who were directors of the company, even if there was an alteration of the guaranty, the guarantors would not be discharged, as they consented to such payment. American Copper Co. v. Lowther, (Supm. Ct. Tr. T.) 25 Misc. (N. Y.) 441, affirmed 38 N. Y. App. Div. 134, affirmed 165 N. Y. 625.

What Is Not an Alteration of the Contract. — See American Copper Co. v. Lowther, 38 N. Y. App. Div. 134, affirmed 165 N. Y. 625.

The guarantor guaranteed the payment of dividends on stock until a certain date. The subscription on the stock was not paid by that date, the purchaser of the stock having died, but his administrator paid the balance with reasonable diligence. It was held that the guarantor was not discharged from liability. Rogers v. Chambers, 112 Ga. 258.

Where a guaranty is given for twine purchased of a certain person, and twine is delivered, which on account of its inferior quality is returned, this is not such a change in the original contract as will relieve the guarantor from liability. Groendyke v. Musgrave, 123 Iowa 535.

1163. 7. Change in Membership of Firm. — Byers v. Hickman Grain Co., 112 Iowa 451.

The guarantor guaranteed the payment of goods to be purchased by a firm up to a certain amount. The firm dissolved without notice to either the guarantor or the guarantee, and one of the members continued business under the firm name and made purchases from the guarantee under such name. There was no fact that gave the vendors notice of any change. It was held that the guaranty did not expire upon the dissolution of the partnership. In re Cinque, 109 Fed. Rep. 455.

What Not Extension of Time. — The time of payment of an obligation is not extended so as to release a guarantor on a guaranty for payment for belting on four months' time, where it appears that the note was given thirteen days after sale of the belting. Page Belting Co. v. Parker, 21 N. Y. App. Div. 160, affirmed 163 N. Y. 583.

Where the date of payment is extended two years, but the guaranty was that the debt was to be paid in six years, the extension did not discharge the guarantor. Alger v. Alger, 83 N. Y. App. Div. 168.

In Buffalo Bank v. Schwartz, 53 N. Y. App. Div. 517, it was held that where several notes were held, among which were those that were guaranteed, and it was provided by the guaranty that the unguaranteed notes were to be paid before those that were guaranteed, and two of the notes were renewed without the guarantor's knowledge, but the date of renewal did not extend beyond the time when the last of the notes became due, there was not an extension of time which would discharge the guarantor.

Co. Ct. 358, affirmed 10 Pa. Super. Ct. 554.3. Power of Court to Order Appropriation of Funds for Support of Drunkard and Family. — In re Stackhouse, 2 N. Bruns. Eq. Rep. 91.6. In Maryland, where an habitual drunkard appeared in person, expressed his desire to discontinue with the legal proceedings, and appointed his own committee, it was held that the court had the same power to order a sale of his lands as if he had been declared an habitual drunkard. Tome v. Stump, 89 Md. 264.248. 4. Suspending Commission. — See Roberts's Estate, 197 Pa. St. 621.In Matter of Lerner, (Supm. Ct. App. Div.) 12 N. Y. Annot. Cas. 362, 79 N. Y. App. Div. 134, an order had been made that the petitioner be released on probation, to be recommitted if she should relapse. It was argued on habeas corpus proceedings that under Code Civ. Pro. N. Y., § 2031, the judge should have granted a final decree — had no power to discharge on probation. The court held that the fact that the order was qualified furnished no legal cause for complaint to her committee.249. 1. Arbitration. — In an action on a policy of hail insurance where arbitration of the amount of the loss was not made a condition precedent to bringing the action, a failure to arbitrate would not defeat it. Barry v. Farmer's Mut. Hail Assoc., 114 Iowa 186.Measure of Damages. — In an action on a policy of hail insurance an instruction that the recovery should be the market value of thegrain at the time of threshing less a reasonable expense of threshing and marketing, and as to corn a reasonable expense of husking and cribbing, is erroneous because no deduction was made for the cost of fitting the crop for market, such as harvesting and stacking, etc. Barry v. Farmers Mut. Hail Assoc., 114 Iowa 186. And see McIlrath v. Farmers Mut. Hail Ins. Assoc., 114 Iowa 244.Evidence as to Loss. — In an action on a policy of hail insurance the jury is justified in taking the farmer's knowledge of the number of bushels of corn injured by hail as well as the number of acres planted in preference to the figures of the insurance company's witnesses, based partly upon their conclusions as to the fulness of the crib and acreage in cultivation. Condon v. Des Moines Mut. Hail Assoc., 120 Iowa 80.In an action on a policy of hail insurance an instruction permitting the jury to consider the yield of other fields of similar kind and quality in that neighborhood in estimating the depreciation of yield suffered is correct. *Condon v.
